MIGHTY PAGEANT PLEA FOR VOTES FOR WOMEN

Hosts of American Suffragists Pass in Review Between Cheering Lines at National Capital.

PARADE IS BEAUTIFUL AND IMPOSING

Washington, March 3.—This was woman's day of political crowning glory, short of actually possessing the universal right to vote, for several thousand of them turned out to form a great procession in Pennsylvania avenue to demonstrate the unanimity of their sex in their demand for the ballot.

Even before the procession started, enthusiastic thousands lined the broad avenue. Cheers greeted the small detachments and a great wave of applause marked the progress of "General" Rosalie Jones and her little band of "rikers," as they proceeded to the rendezvous. Men and women alike joined in the demonstration and the human walls that lined the route of march formed a sea of tossing handkerchiefs and waving flags.

Trumpeters Sound "Advance."

Precision and business-like methods marked the carrying out of the plans for the parade, which was to form at and around the Peace monument. Trumpeters, stationed at intervals in the distance, stretching to the treasury, were ready to sound the "advance" as the head of the parade started. On the steps of the government's treasure house the actors in the tableau, symbolic of woman's triumph, stood at attention and ready to begin a series of dances and alluring groupings.

Mrs. Richard Coke Burelson, grand marshal of the procession, was busy from an early hour today, preparing for the start. She was assisted by five aides, all excellent horsewomen, who rode astride and dashed here and there giving hurried commands and bringing order out of chaos. Miss Inez Milholland, as the herald whose trumpet blast was to signal the start, was dressed in royal purple and astride a nettlesome charger.

Virtually no deviation was made from the order of march as already made public. Allegorical floats found their way into line without a hitch; under the dashing directions of the mounted aides, delegations were assigned and the various sections were placed in their several positions.

Elderly Women March.

A striking feature of the gathering at the foot of Capitol hill was the number of elderly women who appeared to march for the "cause." While the day was perfect the air was chill, and the way was long. Younger women, before the start, wearied of the long wait, but their elders were stoical.

As planned the officers of the National Woman's Suffrage association were given the place of honor in the line immediately behind the grand marshal and her aides and the purple-clad herald. Behind them were massed forty "ushers" and a prancing squadron of "petticoat cavalry," under the command of Miss Genevieve Wimsatt.

Then the seven sections, into which the suffrage managers had divided the procession, formed a kaleidoscopic picture of ever-shifting color. Gay tunics set off sombre caps and gowns; the prim dress of professional nurses were the background for the gingham gowns and "poke" bonnets of the farming women, while the gaw and fashionable attire of well known actors were in contrast with the purposedly stained dresses of the literary women.

Acclaimed With Cheers.

When the six "golden chariots" contributed by the suffragists, of Baltimore, put in appearance to lead the seventh section, they were acclaimed with cheers. Although gaudy in their fresh gilt the chariots shared attention with the more sombre "liberty bell" in the same section, the contribution of the suffragists of Philadelphia.

It had been arranged that when the parade started the dances and tableaux of the treasury steps were to begin, reaching their climax as the head of the

IN FIREMEN'S CASE

Washington, March 3.—William L. Chambers, of Washington, D. C., former chief justice of the international court at Samao and a former member of the Spanish treaty claims commission, was today chosen as the third arbitrator in the wage dispute between the eastern railroads and their firemen.

W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and Albert Phillips, vice president of the firemen's organization, are the others.

PROGRAM KEEPS MARSHALL BUSY

CADETS AT HIS CALL

Washington, March 3.—On the eve of assuming the second highest office in the gift of the American people Vice President-elect Marshall today began a program of activity which will keep him busy until far into the night.

A number of conferences with political friends and advisers are scheduled, beginning at 11 o'clock and continuing until late in the afternoon. So numerous are these engagements that this morning it was considered doubtful whether Governor Marshall will be able, even if he were so inclined, to view the suffrage parade.

One of the principal features of the governor's day will be a lengthy conference with President-elect Wilson, who arrives in mid-afternoon. In the evening Governor and Mrs. Marshall will be the guests of honor at a reception given by the Woman's National Democratic League, the governor later being the honor guest at a dinner to be given by former Representative John E. Lamb, of Indiana, at which only members of the Indiana delegation in congress will be present.

The governor has as his orderlies throughout his waking hours uniformed cadets from the Culver Military academy, a school in his own state. Two privates and an officer are at his call at all hours, the guard being changed every six hours with the military ceremony.

BRYAN WATCHING NEWSPAPERS, TOO

Says He's Interested in Knowing New Cabinet Membership.

REACHES WASHINGTON

Washington, March 3.—William Jennings Bryan arrived in Washington today and was escorted by a reception committee to what is known as the presidential suite in a downtown hotel.

Whether he arrived in the capacity of the future secretary of state, Mr. Bryan would not admit. When addressed as "Mr. Secretary" he merely smiled and said "Thank you."

"I am watching the newspapers with great interest to learn who are to be the members of the next cabinet," said Mr. Bryan.

"Are you still watching for the announcement of the next secretary of state?"

LAST LAP IS NOW AT HAND

Indiana Legislature Opens Final Week of Present Session.

BIG MEASURES TO CLAIM ATTENTION

Status of Appropriations is Still Far from a Conclusion.

Indianapolis, March 3.—The Indiana legislature will enter upon the last lap of the session this afternoon with a number of important measures to engross its attention. The house had scheduled the Cravens regular appropriation bill, designed to offset the salary increases of the original measure as a special order for 2 o'clock.

Representative Smith, of Anderson, said today he was preparing a resolution to withdraw the house conferees on the original bill which would preclude conferences between the senate and house over the salary increase amendments in the original bill. Lieutenant Governor O'Neill has not appointed the senate conferees to consider the DEATH WINS RACE TO REACH DR. FRIEDMANN.

Middletown, N. Y., March 3.—Charles Warbeck, en route to New York in the hope of checking the advance of tuberculosis with the Friedmann serum, died here today. He had come from Tonawanda, N. Y., and was taken ill in the railroad station here.

NEW NICKELS ARE NOW IN THE CITY

HAD BEEN HELD UP

Cashier Frank H. Poole, of the Hamilton National bank, this morning received a consignment of $200 worth of the new five cent coins just issued by the government. The nickels are the first of the new designs to reach Fort Wayne, in spite of the untiring effort of local bankers to get some of the coins, which were held up on account of the opposition offered to their issuance by the nickel-in-the-slot machine interests.

The new coins contain the date mark, 1913. There is a buffalo engraving on one side and an Indian on the other. The coins are slightly thicker than the old coins bearing the head of the Goddess of Liberty.

Some of the Fort Wayne banks had mailed checks for the new nickels several weeks ago, and were informed that there would be considerable delay until the difficulties with the slot machine interests had been settled.

The new coins fit only a small number of the different make of slot machines on account of the style of decorations, and an attempt was made to suppress the issue.

TAFT SMILES ON FRIEND AND FOE

GOOD-BYES ARE SAID

Washington, March 3.—President Taft held open house today and with his characteristic smile greeted political friends and foes. Although he was up until 3 o'clock this morning clearing his desk of important business, he was back at work early and ready to receive callers. Among the first who came to say good-by were Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, U. S. A., and the bureau chiefs of the war department. Several assistant secretaries and department officials followed. Among other callers were Gov. Dunne, of Illinois, and Gov. Sulzer, of New York.

The First Minneapolis National Guard, with a band, marched onto the white house grounds and the officers shook hands with the president. Captain Mel Cullick, commanding the presidential yacht Mayflower, and other officers of the ship said good-by today.

WASHINGTON WILD IN ACCLAIM FOR WILSON

PRINCETON'S GOOD-BYE IS INSPIRING

Washington, March 3.—President-elect Wilson and his family arrived at the Union station at 3:46 o'clock. They were met at the train by Thomas Nelson Page, who escorted them through a lane of Princeton university students flanked by a cheering throng, to the president's room in the station where a reception committee greeted them.

Col. Spencer S. Bosby was waiting at the station with one of the big white house automobiles, as the personal representative of President Taft, prepared to take Mr. and Mrs. Wilson to their hotel. A reception committee had provided carriages.

WASHINGTON WAS READY.

Prepared to Give Incoming President Royal Reception.

Washington, March 3.—Bands were playing, soldiers were marching from incoming trains and thousands of visitors in holiday array were parading the streets today under a brilliant sun and cloudless sky awaiting the arrival of Woodrow Wilson, who is to become president of the United States tomorrow.

So heavy was the traffic on the railroads that many trains were late, delaying the arrival of thousands of visitors and participants in the inaugural parade, but weather conditions augured well against any serious congestion and by tomorrow every organization of military and civic bodies that is to join the inaugural pageant will have arrived.

Day's Magnetic Event.

The arrival of the new president and family attended by 660 students from Princeton university and the Essex troops of New Jersey was the magnetic event of the day. The Wilson party was scheduled to reach the union station at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon. All plans for the reception were ready. The reception committee planned to assemble an hour before the time.

Thomas Nelson Page, chairman of the committee planned to meet the president-elect and his family when they alighted from their special train. The Princeton students were ready to form a line from the train shed to the president's room in the union station and between the walls of Princetonians Mr. Wilson with his family were to pass to meet the members of the official committee. The reception will be brief, after which without military escort the Wilsons will be driven to their hotel where the committee leave them.

Will Call on Tafts.

At 6 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will be escorted by Col. Spencer S. Cosby, President Taft's aide to the white house, where President and Mrs. Taft will greet the Wilsons in the blue room. The members of the Wilson reception committee are:

WEATHER MAN GUARDED IN INAUGURAL FORECAST.

Washington, March 3.—"Fair Tuesday morning, probably followed by unsettled Tuesday afternoon or night; winds becoming variable Tuesday," was the official weather bureau forecast for inauguration day, issued early today.

Apparently having in mind the flareback of last inauguration day when the prediction of fair weather was overturned by snow and a sleet storm, the weather forecasters today were none too positive in their prediction of what kind of weather would greet the inauguration of President Wilson and Vice President Marshall.

Unofficial indications of the weather-wise citizens today were that the incoming president and the thousands of visitors would be favored with pleasant weather for part of inauguration day at least.

"The indications are that the disturbance now over the Plains states will move east and be attended by local snows in the region of the great lakes, the interior of New York and north New England and unsettled weather Tuesday in the middle Atlantic states and the Ohio valley," said the forecast.

LATEST FORECAST OF THE WILSON CABINET.

On Board Wilson Special, Wilmington, Del., March 3.—Vice Chancellor Lindley M. Garrison, of New Jersey, is to be secretary of war, and Franklin K. Lane, of California, at present a member of the Interstate Commerce commission, will be secretary of the interior, according to unquestionable authority. This information was not obtained from President-elect Wilson, but from an intimate friend who is aboard the Wilson train for a part of the journey.

Secretary of State—Wm. Jennings Bryan.

Secretary of the Treasury—Wm. G. McAdoo, of New York.

Attorney General—James E. McReynolds, of Tennessee.

Secretary of Commerce—Wm. C. Redfield, of New York.

Secretary of the Navy—Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina.

Secretary of Labor—Wm. B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania.

Postmaster General—Albert Burleson, of Texas.

This leaves but one post, secretary of agriculture, about which authoritative information is lacking. This, it is believed, will go to a college professor.

He Found Them

A FEW evenings ago, as Robert Cran was entering the gate on returning home from his work in the moulding room of the Bass foundry, he stopped short. There was a frown on his face as he hesitated, and then turned about and retraced his steps back toward the foundry.

It appears that nature has been just a little unkind to Mr. Cran in that she did not provide him with good, solid, durable teeth, and so, for some time he has been using the very excellent substitute which the dentist provides. It has been Mr. Cran's practice to place these teeth in a glass of water, after he finishes his noon lunch at the foundry and to put the glass in a clean, secure place in a wall chest in the room where he is employed. Not until he was about to enter the door at his home did he remember that he had not taken the teeth from the glass on leaving for home, and so he turned back to get them.

On reaching the foundry he went to the wall chest, took down the glass and looked with dismay when he saw that the teeth were not there. Bryant Meyers happened along at about that time and inquired the cause of the alarmed expression, which overspread the countenance of Mr. Cran.

"I guess somebody has taken my teeth away," responded Mr. Cran.

"So?"

"Yes, they're not here."

"I know who took them."

"Do you? Who?"

An alarmed expression.

"You did."

"Who? Me?"

"Yes, you've got them in your mouth."

And so he had. Mr. Cran had forgotten, after his noon meal, to follow his usual custom and had worn the "loaf" articles the entire afternoon without knowing it.

LOCAL AUTHOR'S PLAY ACCEPTED

Purdue Harlequin Club is to Produce Quivey's New Musical Show.

"THE LAND O'DREAMS"

A production entitled "The Land o' Dreams," of which Kenneth Quivey, of 2015 Calhoun street, Fort Wayne, is the author, is to be produced this year as the official play of the Harlequin club of Purdue university. Mr. Quivey is a son of Dr. E. E. Quivey and a member of the Purdue class of 1912. The young man has considerable vocal talent, and has appeared many times with the Purdue students in musical productions.

The play deals witsh college days and commencement exercises at the close of the term. The hero has many trials and tribulations in his one serious love affair, substantiating the proverb that the "course of true love never runs smoothly." The plot is clear and interesting and during the rendition fifteen songs of high musical class and lyrical worth will be rendered. A sufficient amount of humor has been splashed through the two acts.

HELD FOR WIFE MURDER.

W. R. Webber, of Rankin, Ill., Under Arrest at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 3.—William R. Webber, of Rankin, Ill., is under arrest here, charged with shooting and killing his wife. Webber and the woman have not lived together for several months. Yesterday he came to Grand Rapids and asked to see his children. The request was refused, it is alleged, and the shooting occurred.

FIREMAN GETS A JAIL SENTENCE

James A. Brown Draws a Fine of $10 and Ten Days on Larceny Charge.

THE CITY COURT CASES

James A. Brown, a fireman on the G. R. & I. railroad, was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to serve ten days in jail for petit larceney, in the city court this morning. Brown had an elaborate story to tell, but it didn't look square to the judge. He sold an overcoat belonging to George Arnold, also a railroad man, in a Calhoun street pawn shop Friday, but he testified this morning that a brother fireman, who gave his name as M. E. Cline, gave him (Brown) the overcoat to sell. Brown sold the coat for $1 and left Friday night on his run. He was arrested Saturday morning when he arrived in town and as he couldn't produce the man who he said swindled him, he was held for the theft of the coat. The coat was stolen at the Railroad Y. M. C. A.

Had Diamond Certificates.

John McCormick is being held on a charge of loitering under $1,000 bond. When arrested Saturday he had a number of certificates of purchase of diamonds from an eastern firm, and couldn't give an acceptable account of himself. The case was set for trial for March 10.

Daseler in Bad Shape.

Henry Daseler, a South Calhoun street saloonist, was brought in this morning on the verge of delirium tremens and his case, for public intoxication, was continued for ten days.

Young Shoplifters Dismissed.

Claire and Carl Keck, of near Payne, O., were dismissed of charges of petit larceny after being given a severe reprimand by Judge Mungovan. The two youths came here on Saturday morning and proceeded to make a round of the stores. Detective Immel kept a close watch on them and arrested them Saturday afternoon, with several trinkets which they picked up at the Knox five and ten cent store. The boys shed a quantity of tears in court this morning and appeared so sorry for their act that the judge gave them another chance. The youths were taken back to their homes by their fathers.

Foreigner Had Blackjack.

Fory carrying concealed weapons John Polinski, a Pole, paid a fine of $25 and costs. Officer Bossiker arrested the man in an east side saloon when Polinski with two other countrymen were agitating trouble. The former was carrying a dangerous blackjack and this was ordered destroyed by the judge.

The Other Cases.

Rudy Gerberding was fined $25 and costs on a charge of loitering. He has a police record. Two girls reported to the police on Saturday night that a man frightened them near the Columbia street bridge, and an investigation disclosed Rudy as the one who did it.

Burt Walters and William Reed, two farmers who got too much booze Saturday, were allowed to go home. The latter was picked up Saturday night while serenading on the streets with a mouth harp. Both were exceedingly sorry for their deeds this morning.

Jay Dalffin was sent to jail for eleven days for public intoxication.

Wrong Name Given.

Adam Zeigler asks The Sentinel to say that the man in police court Saturday under that name on a larceny charge was not, in fact, Adam Zeigler, but Fred Zeigler.

PAY-AS-YOU-ENTER CARS REACH CITY

Two New City Street Cars Come This Morning and Six Due Tonight.

OPERATE IN A WEEK

Two of the new pay-as-you-enter cars for the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company arrived in Fort Wayne this morning and are rapidly being assembled at the local barns. Six more of the car bodies will reach the city this evening, and before the end of the week, the entire consignment of nineteen will be here.

The bodies will have to be mounted on the car tracks, received some time ago, and then the wiring will take considerable time, but according to Master Mechanic Stevens, the new cars will be ready for operation within the next week or ten days.

CITY BREVITIES.

Exalted Ruler George C. A. Ortlieb and Secretary L. A. Worch have called a meeting of Elks lodge No. 155 for Thursday night, March 6. New officers will be elected.

A public pedro party will be held in Dehm's hall for a benefit on Thursday, March 6. Prizes will be awarded to winners at the games. Everybody is cordially invited.

A meeting of the Fort Wayne Retail Merchants' association will be held this evening at the Commercial club. This will be the first meeting in two months, and Secretary H. F. Kennerk announced a great amount of special business.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state for the Coco-Cola Bottling works of Fort Wayne. The capital stock is listed at $3,000 and the directors are J. J. and C. L. Bornschein and G. T. Hunter.

Twenty members of the Civil Service Retirement association met Saturday night in the federal court room of the postoffice building. W. G. Stahl, president of the association, presided, and considerable time was spent in discussing the Hamil bill, which provides for the retirement and pensioning of superannuated government employes.

procession reached that point. Mme Hedwig Richer, as Columbia, was to hold the center of the improvised stage and to summon to her side "Justice, Charity, Liberty, Plenty, Peace and Hope." The prettiest of the younger suffragists had been trained for the parts.

A band had been chosen to furnish music for the dances that accompanied the tableaux. Long and arduous rehearsals had been imposed and so, with the first bugle blast announcing the parade's start, everything was in readiness.

Chilly for Bare Feet.

The principals and dancing girls had spent anxious and busy hours in the preparation of costumes. They were of varied colors, rich in purples and crimsons and scarlets but all had been arranged so as to make a perfect color scheme. Two of the principals whose roles forced them to dance in bare feet, found the chilly stone floors of the treasury very cold.

Long before the procession got under way eighty Puritan girls were busy preparing for a record business in food supplies for the famished marchers. The District Federation of Women's clubs, which proposes to build a woman's club house that will be national in character had provided four large vans, from which they served hot coffee and sandwiches and other articles of food. The receipts will go toward the building fund.

More Delegations Come.

Up to the last minute delegations of women arrived from all over the United States. Philadelphia, Baltimore and New York sent the largest delegations, more than 500 women coming from these cities. A special train in four sections early this morning brought from New York the banner party of the day. It was under the direction of Miss H. May Wells, president of the New York State Woman's Suffrage association.

Historic Pennsylvania avenue is a lane lined with ropes. In preparation for the suffragist parade this afternoon and the inaugural procession tomorrow the police have completed their plans for keeping clear the route of march from Peace monument to the white house. Stout ropes will prevent sightseers from crowding into the broad thoroughfare and they must need be stout, for the national capital rarely has seen such crowds as are pouring in to attend the two days' celebration.

Ban on Large Hats.

In order to safeguard the crowds and to add to their comfort, Fire Chief Wagner today placed a ban on big hats and also on smoking in the stands. The inhibition against gigantic feminine headgear was made so that the crowd of sight-seers might not be obstructed and the order forbidding smoking was issued so there might be no danger of fire panic. The only exception made will be in the president's reviewing stand, where big hats or lighted cigars or cigarettes will call down no official condemnation.

Beginning in the early hours of the day, arriving trains from all parts of the country poured out their thousands. Troops and marching clubs tramped gaily to the blare of bands to their various headquarters and harrassed reception committeemen had their hands full.

FIND NO CHANCE FOR COMPROMISE

RANDALL IS STRONG

According to statements made by republican and progressive leaders in Fort Wayne, there is scarcely any hope of the two parties getting together for a compromise on a "citizen's" ticket for the forthcoming municipal campaign. The progressives hold to the belief that the showing made during the presidential campaign last autumn places the party in good standing for a hot fight to place in line a municipal progressive ticket, and they are not in the mood to compromise with the republicans.

The republicans of Fort Wayne believe that the city committee, or what there is left of it at this time, accomplished a great deal by opening city headquarters. Judge Benjamin W. Skelton, in charge of the republican stronghold in the Pixley-Long building says that more people have visited the place since it was opened February 12, than in the same period of time visited the headquarters maintained on Harrison street last fall.

Ticket by Petition.

It has been suggested by some who are in favor of the proposed "citizen's" ticket, that the candidate for mayor be selected by petitions. It is proposed that a petition be prepared and addressed to some strong mayoralty possibility, asking him to accept the candidacy. The petition would then be signed, first by representatives of the five political parties in the city, and next by representatives of the business, manufacturing, laboring and social life of Fort Wayne.

This plan is suggested because of the expected difficulty that would be encountered if an attempt were made for a conference between the progressives and republicans. Some progressives, some republicans and a few democrats openly favor a "citizen's" ticket, but the majority of the progressives and republicans, according to present reports, are opposed to a compromise candidate between the two parties.

Old line democrats who urged L. S. C. Schroeder to enter his name as a candidate for the mayoralty nomination were very much disappointed when he announced that he would not sacrifice his health to participate in the campaign, but they are now talking in the interests of Hon. Perry A. Randall, urging him to consider the proposition and make an attempt to land the nomination. The move to interest Mr. Randall in the plan is being forwarded by Mr. Schroeder himself.

Mr. Randall at present resides outside of the city, but could easily take up his residence at his hotel, the Randall, and if predictions of some of the party workers come true, that is what Mr. Randall will do in the very near future.

To Meet Thursday.

The progressives will hold a meeting Thursday night in the Aldine building and at that time it is hoped to complete arrangements for the campaign, even to the selection of candidates for the nominations.

G. W. Boerger, acting secretary of the city democratic central committee, has completed the selection of voting places for the primaries to be held March 13 for the election of precinct committeemen.

THREAD TRUST ATTACKED.

Alleged Attempt at Monopoly by the "Coates Interests."

Trenton, N. J., March 3.—The so-called thread trust was attacked by the federal government in a civil anti-trust suit filed here today seeking the dissolution of the alleged attempted monopoly by the "Coates interests" of Great Britain of the thread trade of the United States, including that of the American Theard company, itself a consolidation of fourteen American companies.

SNOW HALTS FIGHTING.

Constantinople, March 3.—Fighting has completely ceased during the past two days along the Tchataija lines and at Bulair owing to a heavy snowstorm. The Bulgarians and Servians investing the fortress of Adrianople bombarded the city throughout Sunday.

SAYS PITCHFORK ENTERED AN EYE

Also Says Woman Was on Other End of It and Wants Money.

MRS. KENDALL IS SUED

Frank C. Eick has entered suit in the circuit court against Mary Kendall and makes a demand for $3,000 damages on account of an injury to an eye which he charges she inflicted with a pitchfork.

He gives no details in his complaint, but says that last November the woman attacked him with a pitchfork and so injured his left eye that the sight is permanently impaired. William Fruechtenicht filed the suit.

Orders Investigation.

Judge John W. Eggeman has instructed Prosecutor H. H. Hilgemann to investigate a case in the circuit court in which Noah E. Barrett testified that he had not sold some oats belonging to him and Jay A. Hindman jointly, and also denying his signature as the endorsement on a check he received for the money.

Today Hindman asked for the appointment of a receiver and the case was heard in the circuit court. He owns a farm and Barrett was his tenant. He says the crops were to be divided equally and secured a restraining order to prevent the tenant from disposing of them. He alleged the restraining order has been disobeyed.

Date of Election Fixed.

In the commissioners' court today the date for the liquor election in Perry township was fixed for March 31. Liquor license renewals were heard during the day and up to late this afternoon there had been no remonstrances.

Bar Association Meets.

In room No. 2, of the circuit court today, members of the Allen County Bar association met and passed resolutions upon the death of Charles W. Porter and resolved to attend the funeral ceremonies in a body.

The resolutions committee consisted of W. C. Ryan, Judge Carl Yaple, Lee J. Hartzell and Judge John W. Eggeman. A splendid floral tribute was sent by the association to the late home of the deceased.

Decree is Granted.

In the superior court Clara E. Felton obtained a divorce from Peter Felton and her maiden name of Criswell was restored. She charged abuse and failure to provide.

Must Give the Addresses.

In future when administrators, guardians, executors or any other like appointments are made in the circuit court the principals and their bondsmen must give their postoffice addresses. This is demanded by the state accounting board as it gives opportunity to make investigation with half the work and delay. New blanks have been received and this is one of the most important requirements.

Dyer Will Is Filed.

Under the will of the late Thomas G. Dyer, probated in the circuit court today, all his estate is left to his widow and she is charged with the payment to Isabel Dyer of $1,000 and to Charles W. and Thomas Dyer $400 each. The will was drawn in 1898.

Articles are Filed.

Articles of incorporation of the Coca Cola Bottling works were filed today. The capital stock is $5,000 and the incorporators are J. C. and C. L. Bornschein and G. T. Hunter.

PRINCE TAKEHITO ILL.

Tokio, March 3.—Prince Takehito, head of a collateral branch of the imperial family, is critically ill from tuberculosis at his country residence near Kobe. The emperor today ordered his own chief physician to proceed. Prince Takehito is an admiral in the Japanese navy, and served with distinction in the wars between Japan and China and Japan and Russia. He was educated for his profession in the British navy.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

"DRYS" INCREASE VOTE AT ANDREWS

Dallas Township Temperance Forces Win Victory by 146 Majority.

Huntington, Ind., March 3.—The voters of Dallas township, including the city of Andrews, in a local option election Saturday, defeated the "wets" by a majority of 146 votes. The victory was one of the best ever recorded by the temperance forces of Huntington county. The "drys" easily out-campaigned the "wets" and the count showed even a smaller number of "wet" votes than the number of names appearing on petitions for the election.

The vote stood: For prohibition, 258; against prohibition, 112. In the election two years ago, the "dry" forces won by 80 votes. The result of Saturday's vote is indicative of a growing sentiment in Dallas township against the liquor traffic. The township was divided into two precincts. The vote in the First precinct was, "dry" 80 and "wet," 52; Second precinct, "dry" 176, "wet" 60.

"Andrews is to remain dry, and why should it be otherwise?" asked a prominent citizen at the close of the count. "The town has thrived, business is good and we need no police. If we had saloons, police protection would be necessary and that would increase the corporation's expenses.

COMPANY IS PROSPEROUS.

Huntington County Farmers' Insurance Co. Increases.

Huntington, Ind., March 3.—An increase in the policies of the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Company of Huntington, Wabash and Whitley counties for the year 1912 approximated $50,000 and it is the aim to increase the risk to $100,000 during 1913. The association was formed about five years ago and was composed of Huntington county farmers and owners of livestock. Later Wabash and Whitley counties were added and now further extension is planned. The board of directors was elected to serve for the ensuing year and is composed of the following: Adam Shenkel, E. P. Beaver, M. R. Purviance, M. B. Fisher and W. D. Eberhart, of this county; Charles Wasman, of Wabash county, and Elmer Lauer, of Whitley county.

BLUFFTON NOT HARMED.

Its Postoffice Appropriation Not Effected by Kern Amendment.

Bluffton, Ind. March 3.—Bluffton's $70,000 appropriation for a federal building has been passed by the senate and this is the final step toward getting the money that is needed in the construction of the building. Cities with postoffice receipts of less than $10,000 were cut off the list by an amendment by Senator John W. Kern before the bill was passed, but Bluffton's receipts are almost double this amount and the amendment does not effect the local appropriation.

LAGRANGE DRUGGIST INDICTED.

Charged With Having Violated the Liquor Laws.

Lagrange, Ind., March 3.—Jared F. Thomas, a well known druggist of this city, was arraigned in court Saturday on a grand jury indictment, charging a violation of the liquor law. The trial has been set for the next term of court, and Thomas has filed a bond of $200 for his appearance when wanted.

The February term in the Lagrange circuit closed Saturday afternoon.

GARRETT NEWS.

Garrett, Ind., March 3.—Mrs. Fred Mabus is reported quite sick at her home on East Keyser street.

The Misses Wilma and Margaret Galloway, who have been very ill for several days from vaccination are reported much better today.

E. Imler returned to his home at Elwood, Ind., yesterday after spending a week in this city.

Attorney John W. Baxter was in this city Saturday transacting legal business and calling on friends.

Charles Brewster, of Auburn, visited friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Hopper is visiting friends at Lagrange a few days.

Miss Rebecca Keane has been very ill for the past week at the home of her parents, on South Randolph street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miller have been spending several days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, of Kendallville.

Mrs. A. P. Helmick returned today from a few days' visit with relatives at Defiance.

I. Schiffli is spending a few days in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hardy expect to vacate their present home on Houston street and move into the bungalow recently built by Gus Kircher on Franklin street.

Miss Helen Holsinger was the guest of friends in Fort Wayne Saturday evening.

Mrs. Richard Snyder and son have been visiting relatives in Defiance several days.

Mrs. William Mass has gone to Fort Wayne for a week's visit with her daughter, Mrs. Jessie McDonahue.

Miss Hazel Reneman has been visiting her aunt in Fort Wayne.

Mrs. John Connors visited Fort Wayne friends yesterday.

Postmaster Timothy DeBrulat is entertaining John DeBrular, of Goshen.

Mrs. James Page is visiting among friends at Hicksville.

John Shoniff has been confined to his home on North Randolph street, for several days owing to a severe attack of grip.

Richard Bradley is reported a little better today but is still in a critical condition.

It seems that the crusade started by the Garrett people against the curtains of the local pool room windows has been dropped by all but the Rev. John Walton, and although he has been deserted by those who talked the matter up, he does not intend to give up the fight but is quietly getting all the information necessary and then will preach these facts from the pulpit. That he has some sensational and surprising news "up his sleeve" is plainly evident and he will use it to a good advantage.

AUBURN NEWS.

Auburn, Ind., March 3.—Mrs. J. D. Laney, of Fort Wayne, was an over Sunday guest of her mother, Mrs. L. G. Gaskill.

FRANCHISE GOES TO WORKS BOARD

Heating Plant Promoters Get Busy and Seek a Grant.

TERMS OF AGREEMENT

In order to complete as soon as possible the preliminary work of securing a franchise for a heating plant, the men behind the improvement this afternoon presented to the board of works a draft of what they will ask. The matter was taken under advisement.

This and the confirmation of the assessment roll for widening Packard avenue were the only matters scheduled.

The Franchise Asked.

The franchise as presented is as follows:

THIS AGREEMENT made and entered into this ..... day of ....., A. D., 1913, by and between the BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS, of the City of Fort Wayne, Indiana, hereinafter called the Grantor, and GEORGE CUMMINGS CAMPBELL, hereinafter called the Grantee, WITNESSETH:

SECTION 1. The consent, permission, authority and franchise is hereby given and granted unto, and vested in GEORGE CUMMINS CAMPBELL, the grantee herein, his successors and assigns, for a period of twenty-five (25) years from and after the granting of this franchise, to construct, lay, maintain and operate in, along, upon, over, across, through and under all of the alleys in the City of Fort Wayne, and in, along, upon, across, under and through any and all streets and public places necessary for the distribution of steam or hot water, or both, for heating or power purposes, all the pipes, mains, branches, cut-offs and manholes needful for the successful operation of a steam or hot water heating and power plant; and provided further, whenever it shall be necessary to lay any such pipes or mains across any streets paved with concrete base, the same shall, so far if practicable, be laid by tunnelling under such pavement at a sufficient depth to leave the pavement undisturbed, and provided further that paved streets shall be used only when absolutely necessary in reaching private and public buildings.

SECTION II. The said grantee hereunder, and his successors and assigns, shall hold the City of Fort Wayne free and harmless from accident or injury to any person or persons, or the property thereof, or the property of any Company or corporation which may result from any wrongful or negligent act of the said grantee, or his successors or assigns.

Before the commencement of any excavation or laying of mains under this franchise, a good and sufficient bond for FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS ($5,000.00) shall be executed to the City of Fort Wayne, with surety to be approved by the proper authorities of said City, conditional that the grantee under this franchise, his successors and assigns, will hold the city of Fort Wayne free and harmless from liabilities for any injury through any negligence or careless act of the grantee under this franchise, or his successors or assigns. Such bond shall also provide that said grantee under this franchise, or his successors or assigns, will at his or their own expense, restore the streets and alleys to as good condition as they were in before being disturbed by said excavation.

SECTION III. The rights and privileges herein granted are subject at all times to such sanitary and police regulations as the duly constituted authorities of the City may deem just and proper, in the construction of such system, or in the operation thereof.

SECTION IV. Heat shall be furnished by the grantee under this franchise, his successors or assigns, at a maximum of seventeen cents (17c) for each square foot of radiation furnished by him or them, heated by hot water, and seventeen cents (17c) per square foot of radiation furnished, heated by steam upon a flat or contract rate, but the said grantee, under this franchise, or his successors or assigns, may furnish such heat to consumers by meter measurement, in which event the rate charged for steam shall not exceed fifty cents (50c) for each thousand pounds of distilled water condensed by the consumer. And in event any practical method of measuring heat furnished by hot water is discovered, then a charge for hot water heat may be made by meter measurement, not to exceed thirty cents (30c) per square foot of radiation.

SECTION V. Time is the essence of this franchise, and the grantee under this franchise, his successors or assigns, shall begin the construction of such heating system on or before the first day of June, 1914, and have in operation not less than two (2) miles of heating mains, on or before the first day of October, 1914.

Upon default of the performance of Section No. V of this franchise, and rights and privileges herein given and granted shall operate as a forfeiture of this franchise, unless such default shall be occasioned by circumstances beyond the control of the grantee herein, his successors or assigns, which fact shall be established by the grantee herein, his successors or assigns, to the satisfaction of the proper authorities of the said City of Fort Wayne.

SECTION VI. The said grantee herein, his successors and assigns, shall be required, at the cost of the property owner, to extend their service pipes from their mains in the streets or alleys adjacent to the property of an applicant agreeing to become a patron of said grantee, his successors and assigns, to the property line of said applicant. And all tapping of any of the mains as aforesaid of this grantee, his successors and assigns, shall be done under the personal supervision of, and in the manner prescribed, by this grantee, his successors and assigns.

SECTION VII. The said grantee herein, his successors or assigns, as consideration for the rights and privileges hereby and herein conferred and granted, shall pay to the City of Fort Wayne two per cent (2 per cent.) of the gross earnings of such heating system. Payment shall be made annually, beginning one (1) year from the date of installing the said system. In order to determine the amount of such earnings as herein set forth, the said grantee, his successors and assigns shall, within ten (10) days prior to the time of such payment, make a statement in writing as to the said earnings; and for the purpose of verifying said statement, the books of said heating system shall be open for inspection, by the duly authorized officer or agent of the City of Fort Wayne.

SECTION VIII. Upon the granting of the foregoing franchise to the grantee herein, a written acceptance of such franchise shall be filed by the grantee herein, with the City of Fort Wayne, within thirty (30) days from the granting of such franchise.

KILL WOLF AT FREMONT.

Hunters Bag One of Large Pack After an All-Day Chase.

Fremont, Ind., March 3.—After a chase lasting from 6 o'clock in the morning until 3 in the afternoon, a party of Fremont hunters bagged a wolf Saturday weighing forty-five pounds. The animal was one of a large pack that has been wrecking all sorts of damage throughout this part of the country. The wolf was killed by O. W. Patrick, a member of the party of twenty. A great many sheep and chickens have been killed by the animals. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon two more wolves were seen crossing Coldwater lake, but they quickly disappeared.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Zanesville, Ind., March 3.—In honor of her birthday a surprise party was given on Mrs. John Smuts, Friday evening. Those being present were Mr. Chase Clark and family, Mr. U. G. Smuts and family, Mr. Ira Smuts and family, Mr. Charley Harvey and family, Mr. J. K. Shoup and wife, Mr. Robert Clark and wife, Miss Jennie Smuts, Mr. R. H. Fishbaugh, Mr. Jacob Smuts and wife. An oyster supper was served and they all reported a jolly good time.

SOUTH WHITLEY IN RING.

Columbia City, Ind., March 3.—Cleveland township, Whitley county, has requested an opportunity to vote on the "wet" and "dry" proposition. This has to do with South Whitley.

As President Taft Goes

Without the perspective of time to assist in forming judgement, anything like a fair and unbiased judgment of the Taft administration is impossible. It must be left to history to accurately estimate the accomplishments and the failures of the presidential term now at an end. This much is certain, however: President Taft is quitting the White House with an infinitely larger number of people willing to admit that he has been a "good" president than it would have been possible to find a few months ago. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Taft has been so good a loser that he has won the admiration of a large number of those who were heretofore his bitter political enemies.

More largely than any recent president, Mr. Taft has been the victim of circumstances. Of slow-moving, even-tempered, deliberate nature, he contrasted strangely with the impetuous dash and go of his immediate predecessor. The change was so abrupt that it was unduly emphasized. The country had become accustomed to the spectacular in the presidential office. Mr. Taft's course was the direct opposite of this. He took the helm in the midst of an increasing period of public unrest—of a time when popular conviction clung firmly to the belief that the "interests" were too largely in control and that the people were being denied governmental rights. The high cost of living had become a new national issue. Changed conditions were beginning to disintergrate old party walls and contribute to new political alignments. It was against a combination of circumstances like this that Mr. Taft was powerless. He sat helplessly and saw his party's grasp of affairs weaken. Not until the closing days of the pre-convention campaign did he bring himself to the point of hitting back. It was too late. Mr. Taft's effort has been manifestly patriotic, and with all the uproar that surrounded its final year or two, we believe history will eventually give it the high rank it deserves. As President Taft goes, he will after all carry with him the country's good-will. He has fairly won it by his attitude since election, if it was not already his by right of accomplishment in the presidential office.

Dr. Raymond C. Benner, of Pittsburg, has figured out that the smoke nuisance costs the people of the United States just $500,000,000 a year, and despite the crusade which has been in progress locally for some time, Fort Wayne is continuing to pay her share of the total, though perhaps, not quite so large a share as before the smoke-elimination movement started. Let nobody delude himself with the idea, however, that either resolutions or admonitions are going to eliminate the smoke in the absence of definite individual action.

Governor Ralston has signed the VanAuken bill, which stipulates that no divorce can be granted in Indiana until the complaint shall have been on file for at least thirty days. The measure is expected to do much toward lowering the total of divorce cases in the state by compelling supposedly mismated couples to do a bit more thinking before rushing into the divorce court for a severing of the marriage ties.

Meaning no reflection, of course, upon those who will be guests on the present occasion, the senate restaurant at Washington has locked up its silver and placed cheap substitutes in its stead until after inauguration. Past experiences has taught Washington folk that the souvenir hunter is likely to suffer from the malady in its most malignant form at inauguration time.

Weather Forecaster Palmer is manifestly an optimist. Forgetting the demands upon the family coal bin, he argues that the weather of February just past was a distinct improvement over that of the same month a year ago. The local weather man has simply determined to be cheerful, no matter what happens.

DIVORCES AND DECENCY.

(Indianapolis Star.)

The entire nation should feel like congratulating itself on the fact that Nevada has passed a bill which Governor Oddie has signed, which will do much to wipe out the reproach of easy divorce that has made Nevada notorious throughout the world. The name of Reno has too long had an unsavory sound. The new law Nevada has adopted does away with the six months' residence clause and now requires a bona fide residence of a year for those who are asking for a divorce.

There remains now no state in the Union where divorce may be had in indecent haste. It may be now that the last avenue for the loosing of marriage bonds in indecent haste is closed that there will be a falling off in those "married-in-haste" affairs that do so much to cast obloquy on matrimony in general.

What the country needs now is a uniform divorce law so that the present complications which allow a person to be married in one state and unmarried in another may be done away with. It will be a great day for this country when public opinion becomes cultivated to the point where marriage shall be regarded as a solemn obligation, and the institution of matrimony no longer used as a target for cheap jest. Out national indifference in this matter and the lightness with which we have held family ties have long been a reproach held against us by other nations.

PRESIDENTIAL INNOVATIONS.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Those who believe that straws show which way the wind blows look for a precedent-upsetting time at the white house during the next four years. Not necessarily in the conduct of the government or the policies of the president, but in many little details which have been embodied by custom into a sort of sacrosanct character by the worshipers of precedent.

First there was that declaration from Trenton about keeping open the door of the executive quarters for all comers, since reconsidered and, it is believed, rejected upon more careful examination, a wiser decision limiting admission to selection. Then there was the declination of honorary membership in a Washington country club which has been in the habit of extending hospitality to the occupant of the white house, a declination based upon the belief of the president-elect, as reported, that he would be too busily engrossed in affairs of state. Next was the intimation that Mr. Wilson intended to visit the capitol frequently during the sessions of congress and occupy the president's room there so as to be convenient for consultation with the legislators, a proposal that has brought as much joy to the republicans as it appears to have caused grief, not to say resentment, among the democrats. There has been much talk about not tolerating any executive interference with the legislative branch and reminders that congress is not a Jersey legislature to be ordered around. The latest report is that Vice President Marshall may be present at cabinet sessions. Yet why not, if the president considers it would be of advantage? It would at least break the monotony of that "four years of silence" to which Mr. Marshall not ingubriously referred as in prospect the other day.

So far as the nation at large is concerned none of these reported presidential innovations seem likely to endanger the republic, however sensational they may appear to the little world at Washington. Their chief significance would seem to lie in the indication that President Wilson, personally, is not frightened by precedent and punctillo.

THE PRESS DISCUSSES THE FRIEDMANN CURE.

"Opposed to Previous Ideas."

Philadelphia Inquirer: "Dr. Friedmann's claim is something new and rather opposed to previous ideas on the subject, since a preventive and a cure have not been found in the same serum."

"Pecuniary Reward."

Pittsburg Post: "If the remedy is what Dr. Friedmann asserts, a cure for the most destructive of human ills, his pecuniary reward will be as secure as his fame."

"Reputation."

New York Press: "A man of Dr. Friedmann's reputation at home is not to be entirely shelved because some members of his profession think he is mercenary."

"Blanket Indorsement."

Richmond Virginian: "It is to be regretted that many newspapers have jumped at the Friedmann cure and given it a blanket indorsement before it has been properly tested by experts.

"Too Much at Stake."

Cleveland Leader: "No man can long evade or befog such an issue as Dr. Friedmann has raised. Too much is at stake for mankind."

"Helpers of Humanity."

Houston Chronicle: "Discoveries and the inventions of science, medical and otherwise, entitle scientists to the gratitude of their fellowmen and to the glory that belongs to the helpers of humanity."

"New York Physicians."

Wheeling Intelligencer: "If the alleged cure is indorsed by reputable New York physicians we will be ready to recommend it to sufferers from this disease, but not before."

"Opportunity."

Houston Post: "In view of the heavy toll of death that tuberculosis is taking of this country's population annually, it is to be hoped that Dr. Friedmann will have every opportunity that can be afforded for demonstrating the value of his cure."

A PATHETIC DEMONSTRATION.

(New York World.)

On the news of his arrival Dr. Friedmann was besieged by applicants for treatment at his hands. They flocked to him, not with the conviction that he would cure them but in the hope that he might. They are all clutching at the chance, not the certainty, that he may prove to be the healer for whose coming mankind has so long prayed.

No one yet knows the nature of Dr. Friedmann's secret. No body of scientists anywhere has yet indorsed his method. The Friedmann remedy, whatever it may be, is still one of the mysteries of the profession here and in Germany. But little is known about it, to diseased and desperate men and women the reported discovery is a ray of hope and they grasp at it passionately.

It is pathetic to think of the eagerness with which sufferers all over the civilized world have followed the news that a remedy for consumption had been found. It is tragic to picture the anxiety with which in countless homes the outcome of Dr. Friedmann's demonstrations in New York is awaited. If they prove of no value, it will mean despair to those who want to believe.

Science has worked its miracles. It will still work more. Thus far the awful plague that every year levies its toll of lives by hundreds of thousands has baffled the powers of science. But human faith is never beaten, and so long as science persists in its efforts, it will be cheered on by the faith of those who hope against failure and fight on after disappointment.

HOMER T. SMITH AND HIS NEW JOB

Senate Sinecure Comes to Former Fort Wayne Man After 33 Years at the Telegraph Wire.

HOMER T. SMITH.

Indianapolis, March 3.—The Indianapolis News prints the following:

Homer Smith, 2114 Ashland avenue, has been notified of his appointment by Vice President-elect Marshall to the position of senate telegrapher, a post that is regarded as one of considerable ease. It is said to require, on an average, the sending of about one message a day during the sessions of the senate, and affords complete leisure the rest of the year. Mr. Smith, however, has not been accustomed to positions of ease, having been in the active telegraphic harness about thirty-three years. He has been in the service of the Associated Press in this city since 1905, having charge of the day wire to New York and Chicago.

When twelve years old he had charge of an office on the Lake Erie & Western at Springport, near Newcastle. From there he went to Fort Wayne, with the same railroad, and became a dispatcher. In 1888 he left the service of the L. E. & W. and became a dispatcher at Fort Wayne for the Nickel Plate, and in 1890 he went with the old United Press, with headquarters at Chicago. He became connected with the Associated Press in 1897, working first at Atlanta, Ga. He was later in the same service at Chicago and Fort Wayne, and from Fort Wayne came to Indianapolis in 1905.

An old Associated Press operator paid this tribute to Mr. Smith: "Homer Smith is as expert an operator as has ever been in the employ of the Associated Press. His work is done intelligently. If anything comes wrong in an item Smith catches the error. He has the much desired combination of dexterity, a high order of intelligence, and a 'nose for news.' Smith deserves a vacation after his long and faithful service."

HE'S BOSS OF THE INAUGURATION JOB

William C. Eustis in General Charge of Big Function.

COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN

Washington, March 3.—One of these days, after you've been elected president of the United States, a dapper gentleman, wearing a silk hat and a frock coat, will call at your hotel, escort you to a carriage and drive with you, proudly, through gaily decorated streets, between lines of cheering citizens, to the white house, where he'll tell you to make yourself at home.

He'll swell out with pride all the way. But it won't be pride caused by riding with the president. Oh, no! His chest swelling will be caused by the gorgeous decorations, the large crowds and the general excellence of the inaugural ceremonies.

There aren't may people in the United States who know that the inauguration of a president is a more or less private institution. Most people think the government does it. It doesn't. It's a committee of citizens of the District of Columbia.

They're mostly business men, and an inauguration is a business institution, pure and simple—the same way that a state fair is a business institution.

The president-elect selects from the citizens of the District the man he wants to have charge of the inauguration, and that man organizes his committee and sub-committees and they manage the details. The chairman is usually a man of great ability in the buiness world or among the professions. He bobs up as a personality at inaugural time, and then usually sinks into oblivion for ever after, for it is a matter of history that no chairman has succeeded himself—or at least no one man has served for two inaugurations.

Wilson's bell hop—the man appointed by him to make arrangements for the inauguration that takes place in Washington—is William Corcoran Eustis. He is the grandson of William W. Corcoran, the patron saint of the District of Columbia, a rich man who scattered his money in the form of public institutions all over the national capital.

Eustis was born in Paris, France, where his father was on duty as a member of the American diplomatic corps. He has himself served his country as one of the ornamental secretaries of the embassy in London, and is a society man and a man of wealth, first and foremost.

Reports state that he is making a grand little bell hop of himself. He is the chap who cut out the inaugural ball, at the request of the president-elect, and he's done a lot of other things for the inauguration that will make it unique in the history of such events.

PRESERVE INDIAN LANGUAGE.

Representative of Smithsonian Institution Studies Original Dialects.

Ottawa, Kan., March 3.—The United States, through the Smithsonian institution at Washington, is making plans to preserve in detail the various Indian languages and dialects in the country.

A representative of the institution spent several days in the Chippewa hills, near this city, where the Delawares and the Muncies had their reservation for many years and where still live a few of the older Indians who speak the pure language of their tribes, although there is only one full-blood in the hills.

The institution representative came here from Montana, where he finished a record of the Blackfeet and other languages. He went from here to Oklahoma.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

Northern Indiana M. E. Ministers to Assemble in City.

An unusually large attendance is expected at the district meeting of the Fort Wayne division of the Northern Indiana Methodist Episcopal conference beginning this evening at St. Paul's church and continuing until Wednesday night. All the ministers of the district are expected to be here for the gathering and will be accompanied by numerous representative laymen.

A number of prominent dignitaries of the Methodist Episcopal church will be in the city, and among them is Bishop McDowell, of Chicago, who will deliver the principal address Wednesday evening. Other eminent divines who will attend the conference are Rev. George R. Gross, D. D., president of DePauw university; Rev. J. O. Randall, D. D., of Philadelphia, and Rev. E. S. Shumaker, of Indianapolis, head of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League.

Candidates for entry to the ministry will be examined by a committee appointed for that purpose, and licenses will also be issued for local ministers. Rev. T. M. Hill, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, is registrar for the district. Rev. James A. Beatty, district superintendent, will preside over the sessions.

The district is one of the largest in the Indiana conference and embraces Allen, Adams, Wells, Steuben, DeKalb, Blackford and Jay counties.

MISSION FOR MEN.

Special Services at St. Patrick's Church Mark Opening.

Impressive and solemn services at St. Patrick's Catholic church Sunday evening marked the opening of the week's mission for men. A large audience was in attendance and heard an interesting sermon delivered by Rev. Xavier Sutton, C.P.P. During the coming week masses will be celebrated at 5 and 8 o'clock each morning, with instructions on "The Passion of Christ" following. The evening service will consist of the recitation of the rosary, instruction, sermon and benediction. The solemn closing of the mission will occur next Sunday. The service tonight will be addressed by Rev. Father Ambrose Stemmler, C.P., whose subject will be "Mortal Sin."

The week's mission for women closed yesterday morning with well attended services.

600,000 DIE EACH YEAR NEEDLESSLY

WANT RECORDS KEPT

New York, March 1.—Representatives of life insurance companies in the United States which have written 25,000,000 of the 33,000,000 policies in force have issued a plea for the installation of an accurate system of vital statistics in all states they do not possess it.

"A study of the data of 'registration area' of the United States, in which mortuary figures are accurately collected, leads to the estimate that 1,500,000 persons die each year in this country," says the brief. "A similar well-founded estimate shows that 630,000 of these deaths are due to preventable diseases. It seems almost incredible that a matter of such importance as the saving of over half a million lives has to be a matter of estimate or conjecture. It is the more incredible when we know that the exact truth may be ascertained by comparatively simple method which is already successfully employed throughout many states."

150 Years Behind Sweden.

The Association of Life Insurance Presidents, the organization issuing the brief, quotes Prof. Irving Fisher, occupying the chair of political economy of Yale, saying:

"We need first of all to do what Sweden has done for 150 years, namely: to keep proper vital statistics. Vital statistics are the bookkeeping of health, and we cannot economize in health successfully any more than we can economize money unless we keep books."

It is pointed out that the laxity in keeping death records in many of the states is unworthy any supposedly civilized nation.

"Death registration, not occassionally, but constantly and regularly," continues the brief, "permits health officers to attack epidemics in their incipiency. It points out to the health authority not only that preventable diseases are causing undue numbers of deaths but shows the exact locality of such mortality. It locates the enemy and charts the battle field. It makes possible the application of our remarkably scientific knowledge at the proper place.

Rural Districts Not All Healthful.

"The healthfulness or unhealthfulness of a community is largely a matter of comparison. The smug, self-satisfaction of most American towns as to their healthfulness is the reckless folly of ignorance. For generations we have believed that all rural districts are especially healthful. Statistics conclusively demonstrate the folly of this assumption.

"Think what the adding of but five years to the lives of men who now die at forty-five, fifty, or fifty-five would mean in additional service and economic output! The present financial loss to this country through untimely deaths is only partly indicated by the $500,000,000 paid out in death claims, etc., every year on life insurance politicies. Mr. Allan J. McLaughlin of the United States Public Health Service recently stated that in the matter of typhoid fever alone the number of preventable cases each year in the United States would probably reach 175,000, and that the deaths that could be avoided therefrom would total 16,200. He estimated the economic loss from this one disease at not less than $100,000,000 annually.

Billion Dollar Waste Yearly.

The report of the National Conservation Commission on National Vitality states that the economic waste from preventable deaths every year in the United States is about $1,000,000, and that the economic waste from preventable illness is $500,000,000 every year, making a total annual economic loss of $1,500,000,000, more than enough to pay the annual expenses of the Federal government.

"As a matter of intelligent government, no civilized community should permit a human life to be begun unrecorded; no civilized community should permit a human to die and be buried without official registration of when and why."

$41,000 GONE; WOMAN MAY DIE

New Crime Mystery Baffles Police at Evanston and Chicago.

STORY STRANGE ONE

Chicago, March 3.—Chicago and Evanston police co-operated today in investigating the disappearance of $41,000 which was either lost or stolen from Mrs. Mabel Mills, 45 years old, wife of a wealthy real estate dealer of San Antonio, Texas.

Mrs. Mills is in a serious condition at an Evanston hospital due to a wound on the back of her head which she received either from a blow dealt by robbers or a fall.

Mrs. Mills told the police of having drawn $43,000 from a Chicago bank Saturday and spending $2,000 on a shopping tour in State street and then dining with a woman friend in Evanston. She said she suffered intensely from the cold when she started back to Chicago and that she had no recollection of how she lost the money.

When found she was unconscious and her pocket book was open.

Is a Strange Story.

"It is one of the strangest stories that ever came to my attention," said Chief of Police Shaffer, of Evanston. "There seems to be about six different mysteries that have to be solved instead of one."

According to information obtained by the police Mrs. Mills came to Chicago from San Antonio less than a week ago and registered at a leading hotel. Shortly before noon Saturday she is supposed to have drawn $43,000 from a bank. In the afternoon she went to Evanston to attend a dinner at the home of a friend, carrying the $43,000 in a large brown handbag, a part of it being in a smaller purse inside the larger bag.

After the dinner Mrs. Mills started back to Chicago but on the way discovered that the smaller purse was missing. She returned to Evanston, but missed her way. At 10:30 she staggered to a stranger's door and asked for assistance. A physician and her friends were summoned. The latter discovered the smaller purse, containing $1,950 at their home. Later the handbag was found on the sidewalk opened, and the money missing.

It was asserted that a large red light in front of the house at which she applied for aid led her there and that unfamiliarity with the locality caused her to miss her station.

A physician in attendance upon Mrs. Mills after a consultation with the police, issued the following statement:

"We are all practically satisfied now that Mrs. Mills could not have suffered the wound in her head from a fall. The injury unquestionably was caused by a blow with a sandbag or other blunt weapon. She is suffering from concussion of the brain and her condition is serious. She may not live 24 hours."

The friend of Mrs. Mills at whose residence in Evanston, she had taken dinner with H. L. Stevens, wife of a contractor. Mr. Stevens is out of the city visiting in Toledo, and the only person present besides Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Stevens was Mrs. W. S. Halveson, of Philadelphia. The money afterward lost was counted in the presence of Mrs. Stevens. It was carried in an envelope, which was found torn open and empty on the sidewalk beside the handbag. Just before her disastrous experience Mrs. Mills had stopped in a fruit store to get warm, evidently having suffered keenly because of the storm and wind.

Mrs. Stevens had become acquainted with Mrs. Mills in San Antonio two years ago and the latter had visited her previously.

HARVESTER TRUST AGAIN UNDER FIRE

Commissioner of Corporations Files His Report With Taft.

POINTS TO MONOPOLY

Washington, D. C., March 3.—The power of the International Harvester company—the so-called Harvester trust—which the federal government is seeking to dissolve under the Sherman law, lies in its monopolistic position, its superior command of capital, includes its connection with J. P. Morgan & Co. and John D. Rockefeller, and certain objectionable competitive methods.

This is the conclusion of Luther Conant, jr., commissioner of corporations, who presented his report on the operations of the giant corporation to President Taft yesterday.

The Harvester investigation was made in response to a senate resolution passed several years ago. Recently a request was made by representatives of the company that the report be withheld pending the outcome of the anti-trust suit, but President Taft decided to make it public.

Holds Monopoly in Its Line.

"The chief features of the International Harvester company's operations," says Mr. Conant, "are the substantial maintenance of its monopolistic position in the harvesting machine business, originally acquired through combination and its extensions on a large scale into new lines of the farm machinery industry.

"The company has been able to do this in part through the acquisition of some of its chief rivals in the harvesting machine business; in part by using its monopolistic advantage in these harvesting machine lines to force the sale of its new lines; in part by certain objectionable competitive methods, and especially through its exceptional command of capital, itself the result of combination."

Made Up of Five Companies.

The combination, the report declares, was arranged in 1902 by the former owners of five leading competitive concerns, and was not "as frequently asserted," a mere sale of their properties to new interests. On this point Mr. Conant says:

"It has been represented in formal testimony by officers of the company and its financial promoter, G. W. Perkins, then of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., that its organization was not the result of concerted action by the former competing owners, but merely of the purchase of their properties by new and outside interests.

"Documentary evidence gathered by the bureau completely disposes of this contention and shows that the principal competing interests considered and discussed among themselves the formation of this combination and were active in bringing it about."

Morgan Friend of Trust.

Great resources came to the company, it is asserted, through the combination, the financial support of J. P. Morgan & Co., its fiscal agents, and large loans secured from John D. Rockefeller, father-in-law of a member of the McCormick family, which owns a large portion of the total stock of the corporation.

These exceptional resources, Mr. Conant maintains, not only enable the Harvester company to "secure the economies of large scale operations, which as a rule, give it marked advantages in manufacturing costs, but also enable it to maintain a very elaborate selling organization, by virtue of the variety and extent of its business.

"Furthermore, they give it a great advantage in extending credits to purchasers, an exceedingly important feature of the farm machinery industry."

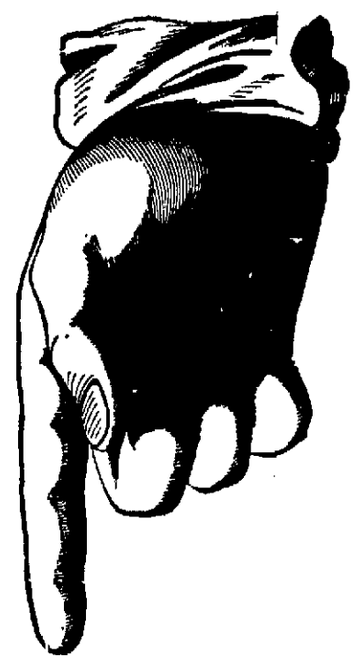
WOMEN SUCCEED IN INITIAL WORK FOR RECALL OF SAN FRANCISCO POLICE JUDGE.

San Francisco, Cal., March 3.—All of the many interesting scenes in the remarkable campaign by the women of San Francisco, which has just culminated in the filing of a petition with 14,000 signatures for the recall of Police Judge Charles Weller, whom the women charge with being unresponsive to the idea that the police courts are for the protection of those who need protection. The agitation for his removal from office was precipitated when the judge reduced the bail of a man charged with attacking two young girls and who later jumped his bail. The picture shows one of the many stations established on the streets by the women for securing signatures to the petition. It also shows a moving picture operator getting pictures of the women at work.

The next step in the women's campaign against Weller will be the election, to be held within two months, at which the voters of the city will be called upon to cast their ballots either for or against the system represented by Weller. According to the women they are not after Weller—they are after the system of which he is a part, which makes it possible for tenderloin followers to get low bail, thus enabling them to escape, when they are charged with grave crimes against young girls.



ROOMS FOR RENT

On the classified page will be found a complete list of the desirable rooms for rent throughout the city. If you are looking for a room today do not tramp the streets—look over the list—it is for your convenience.

Society

Among the April brides will be Miss Mabel Smith and a round of parties to be given in her honor will start next Saturday, when Miss Fannie Matson, who has issued invitations, will give a shower party in Miss Smith's honor.

Covers for twenty-four were laid at a dinner given at the Anthony hotel last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sheyer in celebration of the twenty-first anniversary of their marriage. The decorations were carried out in shades of pink with carnations and pink place cards and after the elaborate menu served the company Mr. and Mrs. Sheyer entertained their guests further at their residence in Washington boulevard west, at a game of bridge. It was principally a family affair, and a delightful one in every way. Mr. and Mrs. Sheyer were presented with many remembrances of the anniversary.

Mrs. C. A. Herkness, of Indianapolis, has come to this city to make her home.

Miss Kate Fox, of Cincinnati, spent the week-end here with her mother, Mrs. James Fox, of McClellan street, and daughters.

Miss Gail Calmerton returned yesterday from a three weeks' visit to New York city and Philadelphia.

Mrs. William Hagan, of East Lewis street, is in Wiltshire, Ohio, visiting her parents.

Mrs. Ben Bennett, of 2730 Gay street, will entertain the N. F. Embroidery club on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Will F. Peters and baby are in Old Port Comfort, Va., for a visit with relatives for two or three weeks.

Mrs. Will Seidel is going to Indianapolis on Wednesday to make a visit with friends for a week.

Mrs. Frank MacBennett, of Washington, is in the city for a few days' visit with relatives.

Mrs. George Van Sweringen and daughter, Virginia, of Chicago, are visiting Dr. and Mrs. Budd Van Sweringen for a week.

Miss Hattie Huston has returned from Detroit, Mich., where she spent a month with relatives and friends.

The Cheerful Aid society will meet with Mrs. C. A. Segur, 538 Montgomery street, tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. W. A. Geiger returned last evening from a three weeks' visit with a cousin in Las Vegas, N. M., and El Paso, Texas.

The Saturday club met today with Mrs. John Evans. Mrs. A. E. Donnan read an interesting paper on the Spanish drama.

Mrs. Walter Bauer, of Chicago, will arrive in the city tomorrow to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cook, during Mr. Bauer's absence on a western trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bursley, of Ann Arbor, Mich., are happy over the birth of a daughter. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bursley are former Fort Wayne residents. Mrs. Bursley's mother, Mrs. J. C. Peters, is with her.

M. A. MacMullen came home from St. Benedict's college, Atchison, Kan., to accompany his mother, Mrs. J. A. MacMullen and others of her family to Washington, to witness the inauguration exercises.

Mrs. Hayden Sawyer, formerly a Fort Wayne resident, is the guest of Mrs. Jules Simon for a few days, on her way to Wilkesbarre, Pa., where Mr. Sawyer, who is employed by the Wales Adding company, has been promoted to a more lucrative position.

Mrs. V. L. Douglass left today for New York and Washington. In the latter city Mrs. Douglas will be the guest of friends during the inauguration ceremonies and in New York she will combine both business and pleasure during her stay.

Mrs. James R. Meriwether is going to Philadelphia this week to visit former Fort Wayne residents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Morrison, jr., and afterwards will visit her daughter, Jane, who is attending school at Bishop Thorp Manor, near Philadelphia.

Mrs. Louis Stiefel invited Mrs. Elmer Rauh and a few ladies from the city to form a vaudeville party at the Temple on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Rauh, whose home is in Dayton, Ohio, was the honor guest. Mrs. Steifel's entertainment included refreshments after the theater.

Dr. K. K. Wheelock is entertaining his daughter, Mrs. Gara W. Dilworth, of Columbia City. In May Dr. Wheelock and Mrs. Dilworth and her two children will go to New York, where they will be joined by Miss Ruth Wheelock and will sail early in the month for Europe, to be gone six months.

Miss Bessie Baldwin, of Chicago, who had been visiting Mrs. E. H. Olds for a week, has returned to Chicago. Miss Mary Evans, of Toledo, who has been a guest at the same home, is now visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hoffman for a week. Both visitors have been guests at a number of small companies of intimate friends whom they meet on their customary visits to this city, at one time the home of both young women.

Henry Grabner was given a surprise party on Friday evening at his home in Washington boulevard east, by a company of friends who were aware of the day being his natal anniversary. An excellent supper was one of the pleasant features of the evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bender, Henry Dudenhoefer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Braun, George Klotz, Bernard Klotz, John Bobey, Nick Treiner, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fry, Mrs. Bertha Baumert, Mrs. Sarah Sheets, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Grabner, Henry A. Grabner, W. M. Grabner, Clem and Walter Grabner, Misses May Honeck, Marie Dennis, Ida Grabner and Atlanta Honeck.

Held Interesting Session.

A meeting of the philanthropic department of the Woman's league was held on Saturday afternoon in the public library building and an address by Rev. A. J. Folsom, concerning the high school boy and his needs, was heard with profound attention by all present. The address was one pertinent to the moment and was both helpful in suggestion and comprehensive in attitude.

"Cross of Fire" Rehearsal.

There will be a rehearsal for the performance of the work, "Cross of Fire," tonight in the Commercial club. The women and girls who are to take part in the chorus are requested to be prompt at 7:30 o'clock for a rehersal before the men. The full chorus will begin at 8 o'clock. J. B. Archer, director, requests a full attendance.

Real Fashions On Real People

This gown is of brocaded cloth of silver over a petticoat and pointed train of pearl embroidered white satin.

The bodice is of pearl beaded white chiffon outlined with diamonds.

With it Mrs. Hammond is wearing her wonderful collection of emeralds and diamonds consisting of a brooch, earrings, necklace and tiara. She also wears

THE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Organization Now Has Substantial Backing and Membership.

A private musicale was given in the Commercial club yesterday afternoon by the Fort Wayne Symphony orchestra with its director, Eugene Troendel, in charge, that was enjoyed by an audience of music lovers, including a number of business men who were ready to subscribe something substantial to the support of the orchestra. On the backs of the programs was a card soliciting names of members and requesting specified amounts of annual subscription to a fund that will serve as financial backbone to the organization. After a program that was very well played by the orchestra, Miss Adelia Reynolds, solo cellist, and P. Marinus Paulsen, solo violinist, with Mrs. Ferd Urbahns, as accompanist for both, short addresses were made by several men to make clear the purpose and needs of an orchestral organization. Marx Frank, Theodore Thieme, Charles Scheiman and Dr. K. K. Wheelock, who spoke in place of Charles McCulloch, who could not be present, commended the efforts for the past three years that Mr. Troendel has made in getting members of the orchestra together for rehearsals and in conducting and directing them both at private and public performances. They declared their belief in the need of such a society in the city and of the inestimable advance in musical taste and culture that could result.

It was very evident that the audience, as well as the members of the orchestra, were desirous of having the organization become a permanent one. Mr. Troendel will continue as director and rehearsals will be regular affairs, so the public will have opportunity before many months pass of hearing the orchestra give another concert.

GOWNS OF THE WILSONS.

Wife of President-Elect Relieves Terrific Suspense.

Princeton, N. J., March 3.—Inquiries as to what the Wilson women folk would wear throughout the inauguration ceremonies have been pouring in from society editors for many weeks, but Mrs. Wilson finally made known last night for the first time just how she and her daughters would be attired. They will wear ordinary walking suits, Mrs. Wilson said, for the ceremonies of the day.

"They were especially made for the inauguration but really require no description," said Mrs. Wilson.

Though there is to be no particular function to correspond with the inaugural ball, now abandoned, Mrs. Wilson will wear at the first evening function at the white house a gown of brocade, rose pattern, the predominating color being green. It is low in the neck and has a long train. There is a drapery of lace at the neck and down the front of the skirt with a suggestion of lace down the back. Applique bead work and some butterflies in shades of green and rose adorn the neck. Similar butterflies are on the upper sleeves.

"It is a simple gown," said Mrs. Wilson.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"The Old Homestead" Tonight.

"The Old Homestead," which will be the attraction at the Majestic three days, starting tonight, will always rank among the great plays of the American stage, even after it has ceased to be presented and lingers only in memory. It has no plot, no high-flown dialogue, no rolling periods; these are all lacking. What it successfully purports to be is a character study, with plenty of light and shade; intrigue is wanting, but in its place is an exquisite representation of honest motives. The present is the twenty-seventh season of Denman Thompson's famous play and it will doubtless go on for many more years delighting theatergoers all over the country. The famous quartet of farm hands and Grace church choir is still the musical feature of the production.

Lina Cavalieri in Concert Thursday Evening.

Lina Cavalieri, who, after an absence of three years, will make her initial appearance in America as a concert artist at the Majestic Thursday evening, is one of the few grand opera singers who has never before made a concert tour. In the nine years that Cavalieri has been known to the American grand opera patrons, she appeared in concert but four times—three times in Sunday concerts in New York and once in Boston.

During the present American tour Cavalieri will be accompanied by Lucien Muratore, tenor, of the Paris opera house. Muratore has never before been in America, although he has had many offers from Andreas Dippel, of the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera company, and from Gatti Casazza, of the Metropolitan Opera company, of New York. The programs will be largely made up of scenes from grand opera in costume. For the tour Edouard Tournon, of the Paris Opera house, will be accompanist.

"Excuse Me," Comes Saturday.

It required little more than the mention of the attraction which comes to the Majestic theater next Saturday to start the theatergoers of Fort Wayne smiling. "Excuse Me" on its visit here last season started a smile in circulation that has been going ever since.

The theme and fun of this "Pullman car carnival," as Rupert Hughes, its author has dubbed it, are so familiar that one is apt to forget "Excuse Me" has a story. In fact this lightning express farce goes at such a merry clip that its plot cannot be dissected by the average spectator on its first trip. "Excuse Me" bears repeating, especially that one may note the way the author has dove-tailed the incidents in the lives of his various passengers into each other.

AT THE JEFFERSON

When He Jumped at Conclusions.

Louise loves Fifi, her little dog. She also loves her hubby, which is well, for hubby is an awfully jealous man. Louise takes Fifi for an outing. She sits in the park and reads and looks up in time to see Fifi saved from a squashy death beneath an automobile by the fearless and good looking Eddie. Louise is profuse in her thanks and they exchange cards. Hubby sees them separate, and the "Green-eyer Monster" gets busy and he only half believes the tale Louise tells him.

Hubby and Louise are invited to a ball and go. Eddie goes, too, and fate ordains that they shall meet and talk as hubby goes for refreshments. On his return the "Green-eyed Monster" gets on a veritable rampage and an exchange of cards is made and Louiise is borne tearfully away. Eddie is more than annoyed. He tries to drown his indignation by long and copious draughts. One of two men find hubby's card in a pocket and decide to take him home to the apartment house. They put him to bed, removing his coat. Eddie has it all to himself, for Louiise is at her club and hubby is at his.

Hubby comes home first, and recognizing Eddie, he flies into a rage and decides to go forever. Eddie wakes, finds he is not where he ought to be and escapes by the window without his coat, as he hears a sound at the door.

Louise comes in, sees coat, thinks it is hubby's. She goes to bed and is rudly awakened by a wild-eyed apparition with a gun. He sees his wife and storms at her. Louise, not understanding the why and wherefore, finds refuge in tears. Hubby seeks the bar and the same solace that Eddie did. He meets the same fate, but having Eddie's card in his pocket, he is deposited on Eddie's bed.

Eddie jumps up and is shown his own card. He sees it all. Explanations ensue and a penitent husband interrupts a very damp wife in the act of packing her trunk. Eddie is called in and hubby buries the "Green-eyed Monster" for keeps.

AT THE LYRIC.

THE LURE OF THE VIOLIN—The great Bronco three reel feature film "The Lure of the Violin," is being exhibited at the Lyric today. This is one of the biggest things in the way of pictures exhibited here in some time. Tuesday a Thanhouser, with Marguerite Snow will present "The Idol of the Hour." Wednesday the big three reel Reliance, "The Man from Outside," will be seen.

"THE GREATER LOVE" — "The Greater Love," which is one of the attractions at the Lyric Tuesday, is an intense drama with a stirring plot enacted with natural settings and is said to be one of the best of the recent releases of the American Film company. In short the story is as follows: Ed Evans kissed Betty goodbye and went west. In a Mexican boarding house he met Conchita, who promptly fell in love with him. One day Jose, her lover, hurled a rock from far up on the mountain side and broke Ed's leg. Betty, in a distant city, hearing of the accident, at once went west to his bedside, and then Conchita realized the truth. Jose took advantage of the chance to attempt Evans' live. Conchita, hovering over the sick man, saw the knife over her shoulder, threw herself on the sick man and received the blade through her back, thus sacrificing her life that Evans may live and be happy.

MATINEE DANCING.

For the accommodation of those who can not attend the evening social dances, the Tanner dancing academy, on West Washington boulevard has for some time conducted matinee dances on every Tuesday afternoon. At these matinees Tanner's full orchestra furnishes the music the same as at the evening dances. As a special inducement carnations will be distributed at the matinee tomorrow afternoon.

KITCHENETTES.

The variety of uses to which plain ordinary crackers can be put is astonishing to the average person Crackers are made to go with almost every one of the courses at a big dinner, from an anchovy souffled with the soup, with tart jelly and cheese at the salad course, and later coated with chocolate or melted fudge or with a marshmallow on the top, as a sort of glorified cracker with the dessert.

Besides they can be made into a dozen tempting sandwich forms for afternoon tea, or as a little relish. And the best of it is they are the least expensive things to buy.

To save both time and the cream in whipping it, whip cream in a pitcher instead of a bowl. There is no chance of spattering.

It is often difficult to cook rice so that every grain is dry and separate. The following method should be tried:—Having washed a breakfast cupful of rice in several waters, throw it into a large saucepan full of cold water. Bring it gently to the boil, then cook it for a quarter of an hour, when it should be perfectly tender and each grain is distinct. Pour it into a large colander and let it drain in front of the fire. Should it not be quite dry, spread the rice in a dish and stand it in the oven, with the door open, for a short time.

Crimson Cross (religious,) Jefferson, Wednesday.

BOLEROS AGAIN.

If anything in the fickle world of fashion can be said to be certain it is apparently that boleros are coming back. One sees the evidence of this everywhere—on the braiding of coats, the embroidering of dressing gowns, the trimming of evening frocks, the bodices of afternoon dresses; even blouses are made on bolero, an absurd notion being the wearing of a lace tunic with a bolero over it.

But the appearance of the bolero proper is definitely promised when spring costumes appear, and the form that it is to take is that of a natty little mess jacket. The "young girl" may even if she likes masquerade as a fille du regiment in a little coat of scarlet or blue braided with gold and hung all round with tiny balls—in short, as like the genuine military article as may be.

CARE OF FOOD.

It is much more injurious to food to keep it in a box with a scanty supply of ice than to leave it covered on a pantry shelf where there is a good supply of fresh air. Refrigeration of household provisions means icy cold food in a closed receptacle; food in a receptacle with little ice quickly becomes tainted.

COLD TO CONTINUE.

March Weather Signs Give No Evidence of Moderation.

The cold weather of the last few days is to continue at least for another twenty-four hours, according to W. S. Palmer, local weather forecaster. The temperature tonight, however, will not be as low as the records made Sunday and Monday. Weather signs at present give no evidence of great moderation, and the March winds will continue to be cold.

The mercury in the government thermometer reached zero Sunday morning at 6 o'clock.

DAILY HEALTHOGRAM.

Daytime drowsiness may often be overcome by sleeping less at night, having more fresh air in the workroom or living rooms, eating a lighter noon meal, correcting constipation, getting more exercise and giving more thought to the subject in hand.

INDIANA'S RANK AS FREE EDUCATOR

Report of Investigations Made by Russell Sage Foundation.

RANKS TENTH IN LIST

New York, March 3.—The division of education of the Russell Sage foundation has determined by a series of examinations of ten searching questions submitted to the governments of each state in the union and by carefully rating and tabulating the answers, which state shall go to the head of the national class in education and which shall go to the foot in the quantity of free education it supplies to its children. Dr. Leonard P. Ayres, director of this division of the Russell Sage foundation, proposed the ten questions and he and his assistants spent over five months in grading the answers and determining the rank of every state in each of these particulars. The results are amazing.

Indiana, on the whole quite proud of the educational possibilities for its children, occupies but tenth place in rank with the other thirty-eight states in the following features:

1. Success in getting all children in school who ought to be in school.
2. Value per child of school buildings and equipment.
3. Allowance of school days per child for school maintenance.
4. Number of school days per child if schooling given to some was equally distributed among all between 5 and 18 years of age.
5. Number of days school is open per year.
6. Average attendance of enrolled pupils.
7. Proportion school appropriation bears to actual wealth, in the real and personal property.
8. Amount spent per pupil per day.
9. Pupils who survive the elementary course and enter the high schools.
10. Average salaries paid to teachers.

According to the investigation each state was weighed by the quantity of education it furnishes. Individual tests were also made. Heading the list of all states is Washington. The states were divided into four ranks of twelve each. If in any particular its standing was among the first twelve, the state was credited with first rank under that test. If its average was in the next twelve, it got second rank credit and if among the lowest twelve it received a fourth rank credit for that test.

Washington leads the country because it was among the best twelve states in nine of the tests and fell into second rank only in the test for average attendance. Massachusetts comes second with eight first rank credits and second rank ratings only in daily cost per pupil and in the proportion its school expenditure bears to its total real and personal property and equipment per child of school age. New York state takes third place because it has only seven first rank ratings and is a second rank state in the percentage of children between 5 and 18 years of age it gets into school, is a second rank state in the amount spent per day on each pupil and falls into third rank in the amount spent for education in proportion to its wealth. California's rating is lowered by the fact that it is a third rank state in getting all children into school. The effect of low average salaries for teachers does not appear until sixth place, where Ohio and Indiana pay second rank salaries, while Vermont barely gets into the first category because it pays fourth rank salaries. Indiana occupies place 16 in its average annual salary of public school teachers, which is $523. That rating was taken in 1910.

California pays the highest salaries. An average of $918 per year is not considered too high to secure the kind of teacher California wants for its children. Arizona pays an average of $817, New York state $813, North Carolina $200, South Carolina $212, Maine $244.

The generosity of the states in regard to education varies widely. For example, Oklahoma appropriates 75 cents for every $100 worth of real and personal property in its boundaries to education. In sharp contrast is New Mexico, which appropriates but 10 cents for the same unit of wealth. Indiana spends 39 cents for each $100 of her wealth.

The report goes on to say that the ordinary child attending school nine or ten months each year requires from eight to ten years to complete the elementary course. Relatively few children remain in school so long. Yet only nine of the forty-eight states keep their schools open nine months or more. In two states, Caroline and New Mexico, the schools are open to instruct pupils only 100 or 101 days per year. As a nation the United States has a shorter school year than any other highly civilized country in the world.

On the subject of compulsory education the report makes the following summary.

"Education was made compulsory in Germany and Massachusetts in the seventeenth century; in France and more than half of the United States in the nineteenth century, and in all but twelve of the remaining states of the union in the twentieth century.

At the present time six of our states have no laws at all. Six more have laws which apply to only part of their territories. The rest of the states have compulsory attendance laws which apply to the whole state.

Some of the states require school attendance only from the ages of 8 to 12—a period of four years—whereas at the other end of the scale are found states which require from their future citizens attendance at school between the ages of 7 and 17—a period of ten years. Some states require attendance for only twelve weeks per year, but the more enlightened ones insist that the children must attend during the entire term that the public schools are kept open. In the most progressive localities this amounts to ten months per year.

An efficient compulsory attendance law requires adequate registration of the children of school age. Little is accomplished for the state by requiring school attendance if no control can be had over the quality of instruction received during that attendance. Supreme court decisions in several states have confirmed the right of the commonwealth to inspect private schools and maintain a reasonable standard of efficiency in them.

PUBLIC INTEREST IN PARK AFFAIRS

UTILITY OF PARKS

According to the annual report of Secretary Charles J. Steiss of the board of park commissioners, the Fort Wayne public is rapidly assuming greater interest in the work which is being done by the park department. The need of the parks, not only for use as breathing spots, but as the means of developing the city to a high degree commercially, is dawning upon the people of Fort Wayne in a way hardly dreamed of a few years ago. In his report Secretary Steiss says:

"The year just closed has been a period of satisfactory development in the park department. A large amount of improvement work has been accomplished and extensive studies with maps and reports have been made for the extension of the park and boulevard system throughout the entire city. Results can be seen in various parts of our city of the earlier endeavors made, and it is a source of great encouragement to know and feel that our citizens are becoming better acquainted with the relation of civic betterment to the city as a whole.

Parks Necessary.

"The vital necessity of parks is not recognized by many of those who are most in need of them. In this nerve-racking age, even a short hour of the quiet, peaceful influence of a beautiful landscape acts as a restorative which goes very far to prevent that frayed, frazzled, irritable and finally enervated condition from which so many American men and women suffer.

Provision for recreation is as fundamental in the modern city as provision for any other basic need. Commercial and other organizations interested in the development of their cities and towns realize that the existence of a recreation plan is one of the best advertisements of a city, and adds value to real estate.

Delay Costly.

"A beautiful city, in which the health and comfort of its citizens are looked after, attracts desirable people as residents and taxpayers. Beautiful parks and boulevards enhance the value of taxable property and thus yield a larger financial return to the city.

"If we do not do it soon, the coming generations will have to pay dearly to restore, by artificial means, natural features which our foresight should have preserved.

"A farsighted policy is rapidly gaining ground among city officials and patriotic citizens generally, which insures favorable sites for parks before the growth of a city causes the land that ought to be retained for parks from becoming occupied by residences and factories.

"To plan parks early results in a better city, secures the land at a much lower figure and induces the more rapid growth of the population and of the city's wealth. Moreover, it preserves natural scenery—one of the most valuable of a city's assets. True landscape architecture shuns too much artificiality but exalts and refines nature.

"We have permitted some of our most charming pieces of scenery and landscape to be obliterated, but there still are many places that may be conserved which as yet have not been ruined by the hand of commercialism.

Park Funds.

"The activities of the park department are somewhat hampered by the small amount of funds available for park purposes. There was a time when the appropriations were sufficient because of the very small park area to be maintained, and upon which no extensive improvements were contemplated, but conditions have changed. Our park areas have been considerably increased, and they must be improved. This means that the maintenance and improvement expenditures will necessarily be increased, leaving little or no balance for the purchase of additional park lands. Therefore, if our city intends to keep abreast with the times and secure needed additional park areas, the funds for the same must be derived from special appropriations, special assessments or by issuance of short-time bonds.

Returns on Investments.

"In order to secure the best returns on park investments the park areas should be employed, during the entire twelve months, so fast as their physical development will permit. In the matter of winter sports, several of our parks afford unusual opportunities for spreading the gospel of more and better parks for the people who at present are a bit skeptical about the advisability of expending any more money for breathing spots. The summer sports have already been given intelligent attention, but with an additional small outlay of money the grounds could be made meccas of amusement for both young and old.

Utility of Parks.

"The visitations to our parks during the past season have been greatly increased from that of former years. Many times permits for a picnic, reunion, tennis court, baseball diamond, football field, basket ball banks, etc., were issued months ahead. Of picnics, socials or reunions, there was nearly an average of one per day during the summer months; many of these permits included the baseball diamonds and tennis courts, for which no special permits were issued on those days, and of which, therefore, our office has no record. During the year two hundred permits were issued for baseball games, twelve hundred permits for the tennis courts and fourteen permits for football games. In addition to these there were many small neighborhood basket picnics, of which no record was kept, and many other enjoyable little gatherings, such as outdoor evening suppers, ets. There are now permits issued for dates in August, 1913.

CHRONIC STOMACH TROUBLE CURED.

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach. Is it not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and may be had for a trifle? "About one year ago," says P. H. Beck, of Wakelee, Mich., "I bought a package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used any number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit." For sale by all dealers. —Adv.

PASTOR USES PHONOGRAPH.

"Canned Music" as Substitute for Choir Pleases Church Members.

Battle Creek, Mich., March 3.—Learning that he would have no choir Sunday because the leader, Mrs. Maude Pike Alden, had resigned, the Rev. William H. Phelps of the First Methodist church, advertised music by prominent New York singers. The pastor used a talking machine. While some of those present went away talking adversely about "canned music" in church, most of them were well satisfied.

THESE ARE ALL OF THE FRIAR ATHLETES WHO REPORTED YESTERDAY AT HEADQUARTERS TO GET THEIR LETTERS.

Standing—Pask, Poss, Wilkens, C. Wilt, Strieder, Dunbar. Sitting—Dochterman, Rinehart, Gessler, Ellenwood, Roth.

Not all of the men who earned letters in the Friar athletic ranks last season were able to be present yesterday afternoon at the time the awards were made. Some of them were out of the city, some slept too late in the afternoon and others offered engagement with winsome young women as excuses for not being there, and nothing more was done than to formally award to those present the "F's" they were entitled to.

Dennison is the only man of the lot who obtained two, one for his work on the football squad and the other on the track team at the Driving park meeting last fall. Of the track team members not present are Otto Fuelber, V. Wise, Gust Wilson, and of the football men Dennison, Werder, Braden, Ball, Miller and McKay.

It had been intended to elect captains of the two teams but in the absence of so many it was decided to postpone the selection for the time and to call another meeting later. John O'Connor, of the athletic committee, was also out of the city, and Frank Rinehart and Ellenwood were the two representatives on hand.

Work in the field of athletics was highly gratifying last season not only on account of results obtained but for the enthusiasm awakened, and the organization expects to make a better showing in 1913.

MAHER GAVE BOB A TOUGH BATTLE

Stood Him Off Long Time and Almost Got Him During Bout.

'DRANK FROM BOTTLE

New York, March 3.—"One of the 'ardest nuts I ever 'ad to crack was Peter Maher," said Bob Fitzsimmons not long ago. "Some people think Peter wasn't syme," added the freckled fellow, "but, me eye, that is a mistake, like it from me." And Bob speaks with authority, for he met the Irishman in the ring on three occasions.

The last Fitzsimmons-Maher battle was pulled off in Mexico, opposite Langtry, Tex., seventeen years ago, and Fitz was the victor after one minute and thirty-five seconds of fighting. That wasn't much of a battle, but in the first meeting between the men Maher showed almost championship caliber, and Bob admits he was nearer to defeat that day in 1892 than any of the spectators realized.

"He almost got me," confessed Bob. A funny thing about Maher which made the fans believe he was a quitter was that when he was knocked stiff his eyes always stayed wide open. "The way he glared at a bloke was positively uncanny, and gives me the shivers," explains Bob. The very fact that he didn't close his eyes was proof that Maher wasn't faking unconsciousness.

Billy Madden was responsible for introducing Maher to the professional pugilistic arena. At the time Madden discovered him, Maher was amateur middleweight champion of Ireland and amateur heavyweight champion of Great Britain. Madden decided that the Irish boy was good enough to pit against the lanky Australian, and induced him to come to America.

The men met in New Orleans in March, 1892, before a crowd of 7,000 enthusiastic fans. Bob landed only one good blow in the first round, and Peter retaliated in the second, landing a blow that made Fitz see constellations. In the third and fourth rounds Bob set the pace, but Maher came back strong in the fifth and Bob was saved from severe punishment only by the bell.

Honors were about even, with Fitz having a shade, until the tenth, when two hard ones made Bob realize that he was up against a hard customer. After that it was all Fitz, and in the twelfth Madden threw up the sponge. After it was over Bob gave Peter a resounding kiss, and the curtain went down with the two men drinking whisky from the same bottle.

BARNHART OUGHT TO BE SELECTED

Second Series Should Be Played Just Like the First One.

PLAY FRIDAY NIGHT

If Barnhart, the big collegian who worked in the Friar-St. Mary's elimination series, can be secured to officiate as referee in the finals between the Friars and Concordia college, he is the logical man for the place.

It is possible that he cannot be employed, but if he can and is, the conditions surrounding the battle for the Fort Wayne title will be practically the same as they were in the contests in which the Friars obtained the right to fight for the honors.

Neither team has anything to fear from any competent referee. In their game against Corby hall the Friars indicated very plainly that they have developed rapidly and that there will be a vast improvement in their play when they meet Concordia. They can shoot baskets and they can work the floor rapidly and accurately and put up a good clean defense.

This holds good with Concordia and it would be a great disappointment if the spectators should be disappointed in the work of the referee. Pete Vaughn may be one of the best in the business but he will be new here and will start under a handicap. The public knows and likes Barnhart and he has shown marked ability in handling the games, and it would most likely please Fort Wayne patrons to see him presiding.

Men on both teams and their supporters are too good sportsmen to seek any advantage and it is certain that in trying for Pete Vaughn they are not sidestepping Barnhart and the plan was conceived with the idea of giving the public a change and adding interest.

When these clubs get together they will put up a good, fast, snappy game unless all the advance dope is wrong. Concordia has a heavier team than the one St. Mary's Athletic club sent into the elimination affair, and this squad has the advantage of constant training. Corby hall had this same advantage and was beaten by the Friars so that all forecasts can be based on the assumption that the series will be worth while.

Scott will not be in the first game as he is going to St. Louis with the Winona academy team, of which he was a member before he joined the Friars.

Other games for the week will be one between the Turner Juniors at Roanoke and both the boys' and girls' high school teams will play at Auburn on Friday night.

THE FORTY YEAR TEST.

An article must have exceptional merit to survive for a period of forty years. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was first offered to the public in 1872. From a small beginning it has grown in favor and popularity until it has attained a world-wide reputation. You will find nothing better for a cough or cold. Try it and you will understand why it is a favorite after a period of more than forty years. It not only gives relief—it cures. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

DUGAN IS AFTER WINNER OF BOUT

Issues Challenge to Meet Either Willard or Leon and Has Money.

HE IS A GOOD FIGHTER

No boxing match of any importance was ever pulled off without some half dozen or more challenges being hurled at the winner but they are generally issued from the ring and greeted by great applause.

Tommy Dugan, who styles himself the heavyweight champion of Michigan and Canada, has issued an entirely different sort of a defi and he wants it known that he will take on either Willard or Jack Leon, preferring the one who has the best of the bout to be staged at Princess rink on Wednesday night.

Behind the Dugan challenge is $500 of real money which he has planted with a Chicago newspaper, and he will bet that amount he can beat either one.

If the men fight ten rounds here it will be hard to tell which is the winner as the law forbids a decision, but either one of them can have a chance at Dugan and his 500 kopecs. Dugan has beaten Mike Schreck, Sailor Burke, Andy Morris, Jim Stewart, Denver Jack Geyer and the original Hank Griffin. Tony Ross is the only man who ever licked him.

Dugan is 5 feet 11 inches and weighs 200 pounds, and is a counterpart and protege of Tommy Burns. Manager Mark Shaughnessy, who is here with Jack Leon, thinks well of Dugan, and wouldn't mind giving him a match.

Preparations are going on nicely for the Willard-Leon bout. Willard returned Saturday to Chicago as suddenly as he had left, and denied that he had ever entertained an idea of running out of his bout here with Leon. He said he had been notified his baby was ill in Kansas and he simply went out to see it, and as he was in a hurry he didn't notify anybody.

When he got back he telephoned Manager George Blemer he would be on hand and the order cancelling the match was recalled. Willard will be here some time tomorrow and will finish his training with a little road work.

We started in at half-past two
To roll for "just a little while,"
As bowlers very often do,
An idle moment to beguile;
At three o'clock I said, "Let's quit."
(I'd won in nearly every frame)
My comrades answered, "Nixy. Nit!
Come on, let's roll Just One More Game!"

And then we bowled along till four.
My friend by that time forged ahead,
"Aw, say!" he murmured, "it's a bore.
Let's cut it out and quit," he said,
But no, it was my turn to shout,
And so I made my boastful claim:
"Give me a chance! I'll beat you out,
Come on—let's roll just one more game."

We rolled and rolled and rolled again
And then we rolled and rolled again.
At home our dinners both grew cold;
We rolled till nine, till half past ten;
We rolled until the dawn grew gray
And searching parties for us came;
We shrieked as we were dragged away,
"Come on, let's roll just One More Game."

GOT THE HOGANS SLIGHTLY MIXED

Ran Marty's Photograph for That of the Attorney General.

OFFICE BOY A FAN

Zanesville, O., March 3.—All will agree that the best stories are told on the Irish. But, when two Irishmen get together in a story telling atmosphere—then look out.

Councilman Mike Barry, of Columbus, dropped into the city last evening and ran across his old friend Marty Hogan, at the Rogge. Stories began to fly back and forth and they were all with an Irish ring.

"Marty, do you recall the time of the democratic state campaign opening at Canton in 1910?" inquired the smiling Mike, "when Governor Harmon, Senator Pomerene and Tim Hogan were the principal attractions?"

The genial manager looked up with that inimitable grin, which broadened into a hearty laugh.

"I believe I know what you're driving at, Mr. Barry," said Marty. "It is the mistake of a Cleveland paper which carried photographs of the trio the next morning, in which my photograph was run for that of Attorney General Hogan. A short time after that I dropped into the newspaper office and they informed me how the mistake occurred. When the Canton story reached the managing editor he told the office boy to dig up cuts of Harmon, Pomerene and Hogan. The lad—a full fledged baseball fan—had heard of Harmon and Pomerene, but he admitted after the papers were off the press, and his attention was called to the mistake, that the only Hogan he had ever known was Marty, the ball player."

"It was a good joke on Tim," Mr. Barry remarked, "and he still enjoys a hearty laugh when it is mentioned, and in his own words he always says, 'it was surely very flattering to me.' The attorney general was telling me the other day that he had heard you were in Zanesville, Marty, and he is expecting a great team in this city under your management."

Hogan told another one on the Irish which actually happened when he was managing the Lancaster (Pa.) team.

"One of the large rolling mills at Lancaster took their employes up to Allentown on an excursion. That night the excursionists were waiting for the return train to Lancaster, when a reporter approached an old Irishman among the crowd and began questions about Lancaster.

"By the way, what is the population of Lancaster?"

"Well, sir, in Lancaster they're jist 49,997 Dutch and three Irish—Mayor Frank McLean, Pat Hogan, puddle boss at the rolling mill, and Marty Hogan, manager of the baseball team—and he'll win the pinnut, too—so the census gives us 48,000."

"It's pretty hard to beat the Irish, isn't it, Mr. Barry?"

CREW FOUND THE GROUND COVERED

Jack Raidy Could Not Begin Duties at the Ball Park.

REPORTS EVERY DAY

Although the local baseball season was olefially opened Saturday afternoon and is officially opened Saturday afternoon and is if they had not been informed of the fact might have judged from the brand of weather that Observer Palmer is supplying that it is still winter.

On the first day of March every year Jack Raidy's salary starts and he and his crew, which consists of one man whose true name is unknown to fandom, but who is generally designated as big John or the Big Moose, formally reported at League park Saturday. It is not necessary to say that they found a snow-covered diamond. Most of the gentle readers of this column could have guessed that.

However, the crew will continue to report from day to day until the snow disappears, and then Commodore Raidy will begin a careful massaging of the diamond and when it is put in such shape that his idea of what a ball park should be has been carried out he will begin work on the outfield.

This and other work around the park will be continued for a month so that when the athletes who seek membership on the Varnell offering for the season of 1913 roll into camp they will find the park in good shape for the preliminary stunts.

There is to be a lot of work done for the opening. While there will be no addition to the stands, the bleacher seats used last fall by the Friars and purchased jointly with Owner Varnell, will be set up so that in event they are needed for an overflow crowd they can be utilized, a careful examination will be made of all the stands to see that there are no rotting or broken timbers to endanger the lives and limbs of the patrons, and a number of small repairs will be attended to.

FROM THE CRADLE TO THE WORLD'S SERIES

CHAPTER NO. 5

"Talk about your hard luck! Look what Matty did! Pitched great ball and then had the game tossed away just when it looked like a cinch. It's tough to lose one of them world's series games like that. I know just how 'Big Six' felt about it. I'd be sore myself to fling that kind of ball and then have some one toss it off. I wish I'd been in there for the Giants."

Thus mused Jimmy Doolan as he drove back to the farm from the milk station. He couldn't get to town quick enough during the days of the world's series. He rushed his work, and at the first chance read the paper to see how the Giants and Red Sox came out the day before.

He read every word printed about the games and could see himself on the firing line in every pinch.

"I wonder if Bill Hardy will keep his word and give me a chance next year?" was the burden of his song, but only to himself were his thoughts confided. Not a soul knew of the ambition nursed in the breast of the Sterry Center's star.

"I'd like to make good for mother's sake. You bet if I get on a big league team she'll never have to worry again."

(To Be Continued.)

GREAT LIFE FOR AN ANNIVERSARY

Owner Claude H. Varnell in Hospital Without His Voice.

TROUBLE IN THROAT

Owner Claude H. Varnell and Mrs. Varnell celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their marriage at Chicago. Maybe celebrate is not just exactly the right word: You see Mr. Varnell caught a severe cold at the Indianapolis meeting and he hiked out for Chicago and entered a hospital there for treatment.

He feared an attack of pneumonia but his physician piloted him safely past the danger point and he expected to leave the institution today, but yesterday he lost his voice and a throat specialist was consulted today to find out the cause of the loss.

This is the way he puts it: "My lungs feel all right now and the pneumonia scare is passed unless a fresh cold catches me. Five months ago I was operated on here for appendicitis and spent Oct. 13, my birthday, in the hospital. Twenty years ago today we were married, and again Mrs. Varnell and I are together at the same hospital. Great life."

Mr. Varnell had intended to return to Fort Wayne from Indianapolis to let the contract for repairs at the ball park but he was afraid of pneumonia and took a train a train to Chicago to see his family physician. He was told there was no danger so long as he took good care of himself, so he went to the hospital to remain quiet, and had expected to come to Fort Wayne today. Mrs. Varnell went to Chicago from the east, where she had been to visit her daughter, who is in college.

PASTOR CAPTURES THIEF.

Indianapolis Minister Overhauls His Quarry After Chase.

Indianapolis, March 3.—Rather than disturb his congregation Rev. E. A. Larson yesterday chased a thief whom he caught stealing an overcoat from a member of his flock for five blocks, engaged in a fight and later caused the man's arrest.

Mr. Larson was conducting services at the Wheeler Rescue Mission and happened to be near the rear, when he saw a man enter, snatch an overcoat from a wall hook and run. The minister, who was a sprinter in college, quietly left the mission and took up the pursuit.

Just as the minister had subdued the thief seven companions came to the prisoner's assistance and rescued him. Mr. Larson called on the police, who later arrested the man accused by the minister. He gave his name as Thomas Wallace, of Louisville, Ky.

MATHEWSON BROKE HIS ARM.

Lewisburg, Pa., March 3.—Christy Mathewson broke his arm in two places yesterday, but even though it happened to the pitching arm there need be no consternation among the New York Giant fans because the accident befell Christy Mathewson, jr., son of "Matty." Mrs. Mathewson is visiting her parents here while her husband is on the southern training trip. An early report of the accident which omitted the "jr." from the name caused a panic among baseball enthusiast

EVERY FIGHTER HAS A FIGHTING FACE AND THIS IS JACK LEON'S.

A fighter without a fighting face is not considered entitled to much consideration, so Jack Leon has cultivated one and this is what it will look like when he puts it up to Jess Willard at Princess rink Wednesday night. It is not a phizz that one would want to use in a drawing room or even in the ordinary walks of life, but it's a pretty good sort of a ring face and was posed especially for The Sentinel.

Leon's face has had more to mar it than the ordinary prize fighter has had. He was in the wrestling game for a long time and the men who have been against this sort of sport know that it is not good for the countenance.

A cauliflower ear is always worn by the men of the mat and he has one to show for the time he put on and as he has been in some rough matches and has had more than one elbow stuck in his face aside from being stopped in a rush now and then by the "heel" of an opponent's hand, he has had his face swiped across a number of canvass mats and while it is still good for social purposes it is dangerous looking when he sets it for a ring battle.

Two ten-round bouts between boys of some class will be staged. In the opening number Ifal Stewart, of Payne, O., will take on Young McHenry, of Fort Wayne, and in the semi-windup Frankie Mason will meet Carpenter, the boy he was scheduled to meet at Peru.

LAST SQUAD OFF FOR TOURNAMENT

Fort Wayne Bowlers Start for Toledo and Will Bowl Tonight.

FINISH UP TOMORROW

At noon today the last squad of Fort Wayne bowlers who are scheduled to roll in the Toledo tournament left over the Wabash and all are scheduled tonight and tomorrow.

Ten of the eleven five-men squads from this city will go on tonight, and beginning at 8 o'clock tomorrow they will roll the doubles and the singles and will finish up their work. They have some pretty high marks to shoot at, and although some of them will get in the money none expected to take the lead in any of the events.

OHIO BOWLERS ON TODAY.

First Squad of Chicago's Big Entry Out of the Way.

Toledo, O., March 3.—With the first squad of Chicago's big entry in the American Bowling congress tournament practically out of the way, bowling devotees on now sit back to look for the results of the teams from outside of that city and Ohio. The first of the two-man events went on the alleys at 8:30 this morning with the bowlers from Norwalk, O., Columbus, Clyde, O., St. Louis and Cleveland competing. Other Ohio bowlers from Cleveland and Ashtabula will follow at 10:15 a. m.

The showing of Eddie Herrmann, of the Lincoln team, Cleveland, made last night when he totalled 723 in his three games, proved the sensation of the night. It was not realized until his third game, when he rolled 277. This gives him a good start on the all events list of winners.

In the night events Fort Wayne, Ind., will be strongly represented with ten teams. The O'Briens of Columbus, O., the Genesee quintet of Rochester, N. Y., three Pittsburg teams and the Bakers' Tailors of Cleveland will constitute the first squad. In the second squad six teams from Wheeling, W. Va., will participate.

WOODMEN TO INITIATE CLASS.

The Modern Woodmen of America, camp No. 3127, on Tuesday evening will initiate a class of three candidates into the lodge. The full drill team will give an exhibition for the benefit of the members present. Strong efforts are being made to swell the membership to 400 by hustlers in the lodge. Several out-of-town members will attend the initiation on Tuesday night.

GO INTO SOUTH AMERICA.

Explorers From Harvard Soon to Start on Exploration Trip.

Boston, Mass., March 3.—Dr. William C. Farabee, formerly in charge of the Peabody museum at Harvard university, will leave Philadelphia next week at the head of a costly expedition to penetrate "darkest" South America. The party plans to be gone for three years and to explore the Amazon river and its tributaries.

The University of Pennsylvania has furnished the expedition with a private yacht, fitted with electric lights, copper wire screens to keep out insects, and an elaborate medical equipment.

The principal purpose of the explorers is to obtain in concrete form some historical remains of the native tribes. Dr. Franklin B. Church, of New York, who will accompany the expedition, will make an extensive study of tropical diseases.

MEETS SLIGHT ACCIDENT.

New Battleship Wyoming Has Mishap in Target Practice.

Washington, March 3.—Rear Admiral Badger, in command of the Atlantic fleet, today reported that the new battleship Wyoming had met with a slight accident. During target practice a few days ago the cap square on the trunion block of one of the big forward turret guns was split. No one was injured and in spite of the damage to the gun it was said it could have again been fired without the least danger. The Wyoming is on her acceptance trials and is proceeding toward Norfolk.

Rear Admiral Badger has transferred his flag temporarily to the Connecticut.

PETERSON COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Detective Immel Had Located Him on Charge of Passing Bad Check.

Word was received today by Detective Sergeant Immel that S. G. Peterson had taken his life at Dayton a few days before the arrival there of a warrant for his arrest on the charge of issuing a bad check.

He gave a check for $40 to S. Bash & Co. and received $15.23 in cash and the remainder in goods. He was traced to Huntington and Indianapolis and then to Dayton, where he is said to have taken his own life.

MAY APPROVE THE WORK.

It is possible that the board of public works will approve the Calhoun street sidewalks at its meeting this afternoon, but it will demand a cash deposit sufficient to care for the part that has not been finished and that is not satisfactory. Just what sum will be required had not been fully decided on before the meeting.

CONGRESS FINDS ISELF TIED UP

morrow noon. The prospect is that both house and senate will be in continual session until the moment the inaugural ceremonies begin. The battleship fight, with the house holding out for one ship and the senate insisting on two, appears to be the key log in the jam. Both sides are insistent.

Other measures in conference today were not embarrassed by such serious difficulties, and while the conferees were negotiating the senate and house were practically marking time.

When congress reassembled early today most of the supply bills for the coming year were still in conference between the two houses. Leaders on both sides were busy early in the day smoothing the way for the appropriation bills, the big measures that remain for disposition before the Sixty-second congress passes into history.

Much Yet to Be Done.

Only the fortifications, diplomatic and consular, and army appropriation bills had been signed by President Taft. There were signs of at least a partial report from the omnibus public building bill, which the house conferees had regarded as dead a day or two ago. The rivers and harbors bill had been agreed to by both houses. The agricultural bill was ready for action after agreement in conference. The pension appropriation bill had emerged from conference, though not finally acted upon. The District of Columbia appropriation bill, hung up in conference on account of a drastic liquor regulation, was expected to pass both the senate and the house in amended form. The Indian appropriation bill had been compromised in conference and reported to both houses. There were still in conference the general deficiency, sundry civil, legislative, executive and judicial, the military academy, naval and postoffice appropriation bills. To clean up these bills, furnishing money for the government, both houses were expected to remain in virtually continuous session until noon tomorrow.

bill. Sentiment in the house today was in favor of the new bill. Representatives said they had received many letters from their consituents protesting against the increases of salaries for state officials. Members themselves said they favored the Cravens measure.

Far From Conclusion.

The status of both the regular and specific appropriations bill is far from a conclusion at this late hour. The specific appropriation is still in the house ready to be handed down. Members said there was no need of acting on the measure until the muddle over the regular appropriation bill had been settled. Speaker Cook said the Weidler garnishee bill would be handed down today. He has advised opponents of the measure of the step and informed them that he had refused to accept the Lyday motion to make it a special order of business for Wednesday. His verification for the vote on the motion, he said, had convinced him of an error in recording the vote.

The Van Auken-Storen registration bill will come down on third reading in the senate. The Krau bill providing that a druggist cannot fill the same prescription for whisky for a patron more than once and compelling the pharmacist to keep a record of the name and address of the patron accessible at all times to the authorities, is also scheduled to be handed down. The Fleming bill relative to the inspection of the heating and ventilating of public buildings will also be considered on third reading.

Suffrage Resolution In.

When the senate convened this afternoon Senator Grube introduced a joint senate resolution which would strike out the word "male" as a qualification for electors in Indiana from the state constitution. The resolution was prepared by Dr. Amelia Keller, of this city, and was to have been introduced also in the house.

Women suffragettes from all over the state were in the senate chamber at the time and after the introduction of the resolution they crowded upon the floor of the senate and began pinning yellow badges, bearing the words, "Votes for Women," on the senators.

Governor Ralston will send a message next Wednesday to the legislature urging the assembly increase the tax levy of the state.

The amount of the increase was not fixed, but it was said that it would be large enough to take care of many much-needed improvements at the state institutions.

The message was decided upon today at a conference the governor had with leaders of both houses and state officials.

FEBRUARY SHOWS DECREASE.

Township Expenditures for Month Amounted to $555.18.

The regular monthly report of Township Trustee H. E. Branning for February shows a marked decrease over the totals for corresponding months during the last few years. Total expenditures during the month were $555.18, against $710.15 for February, 1912. The itemized reports is as follows: Groceries and clothing, $288.93; hospital, $137.00; physicians, $33.25; burials, $96.

MRS. S. J. HALLOCK DIES.

Former Fort Wayne Woman Passes Away at Home in Chicago.

Many of the older residents of Fort Wayne will no doubt be surprised and interested to know of the death of Mrs. S. J. Hallock, which occurred Sunday at her home in Chicago. Mrs. Hallock lived in Fort Wayne many years ago. She was a sister of A. J. Read, a pioneer livery man in this city, who was succeeded in the business by his son, the late Henry Read. Mrs. Hallock was an aunt of Charles E. Read, of this city.

The Royal Neighbors will give a pedro party Friday afternoon at 2::30 o'clock at Odeon hall. Refreshments will be served.

The C. & N. ladies will give a dance this evening at Dehm's hall. The event was to have been given Thursday night.

AGED LADY FOUND DEAD IN HER BED

Mrs. Eliza Bashelier Suffers Attack of Heart Disease.

LIVED WITH HER SON

Mrs. Eliza Bashelier, aged seventy years, residing a few miles north of Fort Wayne on rural route No. 14, was found dead in bed at 8 o'clock this morning by her son, Carl Guyer, with whom she made her home. Coroner E. H. Kruse was called and pronounced death due to heart disease.

Mrs. Bashelier and her son resided alone for several years. She was apparently in her usual health when she retired early Sunday evening, but about 10 o'clock complained of a pain in the region of her heart. She became better, however, and went to sleep. Upon awakening this morning, the son went to inquire about his mother's condition, and found her lifeless body.

Mrs. Bashelier is survived by two sons—Carl R. and Henry Guyer, and two grandchildren. One sister resides in Switzerland.

Friends are kindly requested to omit flowers.

HOBBON.

Miss Grace Honora Hobbon, aged twenty-eight years, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wetzler, of Kendallville, died early this morning at the Lutheran hospital. Death was due to tuberculosis of the bowels. Funeral services Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the home of her grandmother, 2538 Thomas street, Rev. W. A. Griest officiating.

SCHINDEL.

Arnold W. Schindel, aged one day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schindel, 1835 John street, died at 5:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Funeral services Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, Rev. Luehr officiating. Interment at Concordia.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Porter—Funeral services for Charles W. Porter Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence, 1025 Tennessee avenue, and at 2 o'clock from the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. T. M. Hill officiating. Fort Wayne lodge, F. and A. M., will have charge of the services. Interment at Lindenwood.

Bollmann—Funeral services for William Geary Bollmann Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence, 1235 Elm street, Rev. William Moll officiating. Interment at Lindenwood.

MEXICANS FIRED OPENING VOLLEY

Four Dead in Sharp Skirmish With American Cavalry.

ACROSS BORDER LINE

Laredo, Texas, March 3.—Four dead Mexican soldiers and an unknown number of wounded were taken to Agua Prieta today from the point on the international border five miles from here, where two troops of the ninth United States cavalry fought a thirty minute battle with Mexican troopers yesterday. More than 2,000 shots were fired by the American troopers and it is estimated that fully as many were fired by the Mexicans. None of the Americans was hit. Neither side crossed the line.

Col. Guilfoyle, commanding the Ninth cavalry, said today he did not anticipate further trouble. As a precaution, however, the usual border patrol of the Ninth cavalry was increased this morning. Everything was quiet along the line today.

Gen. Ojeda, Mexican commander at Agua Prieta, today claimed that the American troopers fired first. This is denied by United States army officers. Lieut. Nicholson, in command of the Fifteenth, who first engaged the Mexicans, and Captain Armstrong, who commanded troops E and F, when they came to the relief of the patrol, said today that a volley came from the Mexican side before the Americans fired.

No Report at Washington.

Washington, March 3.—Although Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army, called upon the commanding officer at Douglas, Ariz., for a full report on the alleged killing of four Mexicans in a border fight with Ninth cavalry troopers, nothing had been heard of the affair early today. Army officers reiterated their conviction that if the American troopers fired on Mexican soldiers, it was in defense, after an attack had been made upon them.

ADDITION TO CENTLIVRE.

New Wing May Be Built When Pennsylvania Station Opens.

The owners of the Centlivre hotel on Baker street are considering the advisability of constructing a sixty room addition to the new hostelry. No definite plans for the structure have been made at this time, but it is likely that the proposition will be carried through as soon as the new Pennsylvania station is opened at the corner of Harrison and Baker streets.

"We have done nothing definite toward planning for the building at this time," said Manager Carr this afternoon. "Later, however, with the completion of the new station, an addition may be built."

NEW JOB FOR CULLOM.

Will Be Commissioner of the Lincoln Memorial.

Washington, March 3.—Senator Cullom, of Illinois, whose 30 years continuous service as a member of congress closes tomorrow, will not go back home permanently for some time to come. President Taft will have before him and undoubtedly will sign some time today a bill passed by the senatoe and house unanimously last night, making Senator Cullom resident commissioner for the construction of the $2,000,000 Lincoln memorial here, at a salary of $5,000 per year. Senator Cullom was a personal friend of Lincoln and was foremost advocate of a suitable memorial to the great president.

NO CHARGE AGAINST HIM.

Floyd Young Not Responsible for the Death of C. W. Porter.

As anticipated on Saturday afternoon, Floyd Young, held pending an investigation of the death of Attorney C. W. Porter, was released Saturday night from the city prison. Coroner E. H. Kruse found that death resulted from strangulation, that the nose and right ankle were broken, but that none of the injuries was sufficient to have caused death.

WILL GET "RAG TIME" BENEFIT.

Novel Entertainment Planned for Hoboes in Chicago.

Chicago, March 3.—Hoboes who can sing a song, dance a jig or tell a story will be able to get plenty to eat and a place to sleep during the nextthirty days in Chicago. The International Brotherhood Welfare association will open its new headquarters on April 2 and on that date will give a unique entertainment to be known as the "hoboes' rag time benefit."

James Eads Howe, friend of the unemployed, who is in charge of the affair, will see to it that "casual workers" who are possessed of natural talents will be kept here for the occasion.

The proceeds are to be used to employ a western labor agent, who shall keep the Chicago headquarters advised during the spring and summer as to the conditions in track work, harvest fields and other lines of employment, thus escaping the payment of $2 or $5 fees to labor agencies.

K. OF P. INSTALLATION.

Phoenix Lodge to Confer Rank of Knight Upon Large Class.

Phoenix lodge, No. 101, Knights of Pythias, will confer the third degree, rank of Knight, upon a large class of candidates this evening at the home on West Washington boulevard. At the close of the initiatory work a business session will be held, at which time the members will discuss the advisability of organizing a glee club and orchestra. A committee will be appointed to take charge of the work.

A COSMOPOLITIAN CROWD SHOWED UP

Fifty-Four Applicants for Work Represented Six Foreign Countries.

WORK IS GIVEN TO 33

Fifty-four men out of employment, sought work this morning by filing applications with the local branch of the Indiana free employment bureau. Of this number, thirty-three were given positions, some as laborers, others as woodworkers and some in hotels and on farms.

Six foreign countries were represented by the fifty-four men, and among others who wanted employment was one Mexican. Other nations represented included Turkey, Germany, Italy, Ireland and England.

According to Louis S. C. Schroeder, in charge of the office, the array of applicants this morning was one of the most cosmopolitian since the Fort Wayne branch was established. Mr. Schroeder states that since moving the office from the third floor of the court house to the second floor of the new Knights of Pythias building, the business has noted a wonderful increase.

Freight House Unable to Get the Necessary Help.

MANY ATTEND THE DEAN FUNERAL

G. R. & I. Sends Special Train to Monroe to Carry Party.

There is going to be an unprecedented shortage in the labor supply in Fort Wayne as soon as the season for outdoor work arrives. In fact, the shortage is already in evidence. This morning George J. Miller, chief clerk at the Wabash freight house, made a tour of the employment agencies, including the state free employment office, and was unable to get a single laborer. Mr. Miller wanted the men to handle freight for Foreman George Treace, of the warehouse, whose forces are compelled to work overtime on account of the heavy business. Other employers of labor are having a similar experience with prospects of the situation growing worse. The Balkan war drew a lot of laborers from the city, many of whom returned, only to be recalled to the armies of their respective countries.

DEAN FUNERAL AT MONROE.

The largest attended funeral ever held in Monroe was that of the late M. B. Dean, G. R. & I. conductor, which took place in that town yesterday afternoon. The little church was totally inadequate. People stood in the aisles and everywhere else that afforded standing room and still many were unable to get within the building. The funeral was under the auspices of the O. R. C. and the B. R. T., of which Mr. Dean was a member. The G. R. & I. sent a special train down to Monroe to accommodate the employes who wished to attend the funeral. It carried forty Fort Wayne people when it pulled out of the station.

WRECK AT FOREST.

Passenger traffic on the Pennsylvania was interrupted early yesterday morning by a wreck at Forest, Ohio. The Pennsylvania westbound special, No. 29, was delayed six and a half hours and Nos. 23 and 22, the former two and the latter one hour. The wreck crews from Fort Wayne and Crestline were called out, and had the tracks cleared some time during the middle of the day. The accident was a derailment of an engine and ten freight cars at the Big Four junction. No one was injured.

NOT LIABLE FOR DAMAGES.

A jury at Jefferson decided a $20,000 damage suit in which the Nickel Plate was a joint defendant with the C. & E. electric, when they returned a verdict against the C. & E. in the sum of $8.50. The Nickel Plate was released. The case was one brought in which Georgiana Hicks, of Girard, Pa., sued the Nickel Plate and C. & E. for $20,000 damages for injuries sustained on September 16, 1911, when a Nickel Plate train struck a street car at Erie, Pa., on which she was a passenger.

FINGER BROKE; DIDN'T KNOW IT.

Working two or three hours after having a finger broke and then making the discovery when the digit was examined by Dr. C. F. Knadt, who had been called to the Wabash shops to attend another patient, Charles Claymiller displayed an unusual amount of fortitude, commonly called "nerve." Claymiller was attended by Dr. Knadt and then, upon his advice, went home to remain until the broken bone had united.

SAFETY MEETING TODAY.

Next Monday the Western division safety committee of the Pennsylvania will hold a meeting in the committee rooms and will call in about twenty-five of the shop and yard foremen for conference. The committee is composed of Robert Learmonth, chairman; J. A. Graham, C. L. Hamilton, Harvey Hall, K. L. Sheeler and R. J. Lyons.

TAKEN TO HOME IN CLEVELAND.

Walter Zeigler, the Nickel Plate brakeman, who fell from the side of a car as the result of a handhold giving way, and was severely injured two or three weeks ago, has been taken to his home in Cleveland to remain until he is able to resume work. The B. R. T., of which Mr. Zeigler is a member, sent an escort to Cleveland with him.

CALLED TO BEDSIDE OF MOTHER.

John Bachman, meter packer at the Fort Wayne Electric works, was summoned to Tiffin, Ohio, last Friday night by a message stating that his mother was dangerously ill. The patient is eighty-six years old and because of her years and the nature of the attack, it is feared she will not survive. Mrs. Bachman accompanied her husband to Tiffin.

HAD AN ANKLE BROKEN.

John Barry was conveyed to his home Saturday night with a broken leg by the city ambulance, and will be confined several weeks as a result of the injury. Mr. Barry is employed in the Fort Wayne Rolling mills and slipped and fell on the ice near that plant as he was going to his home about a mile out in the country.

INSTALLING ENGINE SCALES.

New locomotive scales are to be installed in stall 32 in the Pennsylvania round house and work in that direction commenced this morning. The ground is also being cleared of castings, etc., for the erection of the tool room extension at the round house.

WAGE AGREEMENT PRINTED.

The recent wage agreement between the representatives of the Wabash federated crafts and the general manager of the road has been put in printed form and is being distributed among the shopmen. The contract covers a period of twelve months.

AN AFTERNOON PARTY.

Nickel Plate Division, No. 513, G. I. A. to the B. of L. E., will give a pedro party in the Nickel Plate engineers' hall, on West Main street, Tuesday afternoon. The pedro party for Tuesday night, previously announced, has been indefinitely postponed.

GONE EAST ON BUSINESS.

William C. Slater left yesterday for Wilmington, Del., on business for the Bass Foundry and Machine works. He went via Washington, where he will stop over until after the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson as president.

HEAVY WEIGHT FELL ON FOOT.

J. J. Kelly, of the Pennsylvania boiler shop, sustained a badly bruised foot Saturday when a weight used in handling the compressed air machines in the shop fell upon the member.

WILL GO IN BUSINESS.

E. Bloomfield, of the Pennsylvania flue shop, has made arrangements to engage in the grocery business. He resigned at the shops this morning and will soon be installed in his new work.

RAILROAD REALTY COMPANY.

The board of directors of the Railroad Realty company will hold a meeting in the offices in the Swinney block this evening. This company is composed chiefly of railroad men, though others hold stock in it. C. M. Preble, the manager, was in railroad work a number of years.

DR. C. B. STEMEN BETTER.

Chief Surgeon Dr. C. B. Stemen, of the Pennsylvania, is improving and will soon be at his office attending to business as usual. Dr. Stemen suffered a severe attack of bronchitis several days ago.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Harry Shafer, stationary fireman at the Pennsylvania power plant, is sick and off duty.

Sickness in his family is keeping J. Gallagher from his duties in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop.

G. W. Hans, Ora Opatz and H. C. Bredmeyer, Pennsylvania shopmen, are off duty on account of sickness.

J. P. Breiholf, who had a finger badly mangled two weeks ago, resumed work in the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning.

L. D. Haslup, a rivet heater at the Pennsylvania boiler shop, received a gash over the eyes Saturday and is off duty as a result.

Mrs. Frank Schramm, of 1921 Oliver street, is quite sick with pneumonia. Mr. Schramm is employed as janitor at the Pennsylvania round house.

Harry L. Enslen, assistant ticket salesman at the Pennsylvania depot, announces the birth of a daughter. This is the first child in the Enslen family.

A distinguished member of the western states' delegation to the inaugural, which passed through this city yesterday afternoon, on the Pennsylvania limited, was Governor Burke, of South Dakota.

John H. Justus, employed in the Pennsylvania freight house, and Miss Addie V. Allen were married in Chicago last Saturday and will arrive here this evening to reside.

Boilermaker Fred Schroeder resumed work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning. He was sick six weeks. Boilermaker J. E. Smith also reported for work this morning. He was hurt a week ago.

Three more Greeks resigned positions at the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning, bringing the total resignations of these people up to eight. All have been summoned to Greece to enter the army in the Balkan war.

When he reported for duty at the Pennsylvania round house this morning Gang Foreman William Gibson gave out the information that a baby son arrived at his home yesterday. The Gibson family now consists of the father, mother and five children.

Superintendent J. C. Sullivan, of the Peru division of the Wabash system, was in attendance at the Wabash superintendents' meetings held in the Chicago office of Receiver F. A. Delano Friday and Saturday. These meetings are held from time to time for the discussion of questions relating to the collective work of the Wabash divisions and are an aid to individual division administration.

The absentee list of Pennsylvania engineers and firemen this morning received several additions on account of sickness, bringing the total number of sick up to a point where it keeps the callers busy to find enough well men to do the business of the road. The new names on the sick list at the road foreman's office are Engineers J. B. Lease, G. W. Erwin, A. C. McMillan, J. Flaugh and G. Grable and Firemen C. A. Snell, J. H. Roberts, F. B. Bennett and E. A. Marlett.

LAKESIDE MEETING.

Committee on Pumping Stations to Submit Its Report.

A meeting of the Lakeside and Forest Park Civic Improvement association will be held Friday evening, March 7, at the Lakeside school building at which time a committee appointed some time ago to investigate the cost of pumping stations and the best place to locate them will submit its first report.

The committee is composed of John Pfeiffer, chairman; Carl Thomas and J. S. Peddicord. The committee will recommend the establishment of two stations, one at the mouth of the Forest park sewer and another at the terminal of the Tecumseh street sewer.

DAINTY HANDBAGS FOR MEN.

Parisian Dandies Excited Over Elegant Leather Creation.

Paris, March 3.—The world of Parisian dandies, whose existence is occupied with caricaturing the English and American male fashions, has been greatly agitated by the news that a few days ago a well-known "elegant" was seen in Piccadilly, not with a poppy or a lily, but a leather handbag hanging from his left arm, and was further seen to enter a store and stow away his trifling purchases in his reticule, which contained, as permanent fittings, a cigarette case, matches, a purse, a knife and an Oxford Bible.

FEBRUARY A CLEAR MONTH.

Eleven Fair Days, Nine Cloudy and Eight Partly Cloudy.

The report of W. S. Palmer, local weather forecaster, for the month of February, shows eleven clear days, eight partly cloudy and nine cloudy. It rained upon ten different days, while the total precipitation for the month was 1.37 inches. The highest temperature was 64 degrees on the 19th, and the lowest was -4 on the fifth. The average temperature was 23 degrees. The average hourly velocity of the wind was 11.6 miles, and the highest speed recorded was 43 miles per hour.

A BOY BLOOD-AVENGER?

CARLOS MADERO, YOUNG BROTHER OF THE ASSASSINATED PRESIDENT OF MEXICO, WHO HAS JUST LEFT THE MILITARY ACADEMY AT DELAFIELD, WISCONSIN, TO GET READY "TO SQUARE THE ACCOUNT."

WITHOUT ARMS OR ESCORT HE TAUGHT LESSON OF BROTHERLY LOVE TO HALF A MILLION HEAD-HUNTERS.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 28.—How would you like to rule 400,000 savages whose chief object was to kill and collect the heads of their victims?

How would you like to hold this position without weapons, going among these savages, year in and year out, night and day, living with them without even an escort at times to keep your head from decorating a savage's drawing room?

This is the job that William F. Pack has had twelve years and he's still alive. Among the savage hill tribes of the Philippines they call Pack "Lakkai," which means "Old Sage." But Pack has quit, not because he was scared, but because he preferred the quiet of a Cuban plantation after twelve years among savages.

Pack stands 6 feet 2, wears a wide brimmed campaign hat perched on a shock of white hair and carries a cigar tilted at an acute angle. It was in 1901, after he had seen service in the army, both in Cuba and the Philippines, that Pack was mustered out in Manila. He didn't want to go back to his Michigan home because, as he explained, "it was too cold after several years in the tropics." There was a job vacant—that of bossing half a million head-hunters. Governor Worcester offered it to Pack, who took it.

It was about the same job the Japanese tackled in Formosa. Pack tried kindness. The Japs used lead and powder. Pack's 400,000 savages love him and respect the law of the white man. The Formosa natives are still fighting and the Japs still using lead and powder. How did he do it?

He went on the principle that human nature is much the same the world over, and that savages will respond if treated like human beings.

Pack took his life in his hands thousands of times to prove it, but he succeeded.

From the very first he adopted one principle to which he adhered during the twelve years he spent among the head-hunters; he would carry no firearms. He played fair with his new subjects, showing them that he had found that they knew the meaning of honor. He was never harmed, though he hints at narrow escapes of which he will not tell.

"If they brought me before their head men," he says, "I would say, 'See, I have no weapons, no spears, nothing to fight you with. You can kill me, but you cannot kill the governor. Another one will come in my place whom you may not like so well as me."

So Pack went from town to town where they lay sprinkled through the mountains like so many bitterly hostile nations.

But the law he brought was not the law of the statute books, grown musty with the years. It was the more primitive law which lies at the root of everyday relations of man and man. Honor was a sacred word with it. Kindliness was another. Humor was not lacking in it. There was no abstract justice, blind or otherwise in it; it was all very practical, and very sensible.

Pack's subjects—they were hardly less than that—had been head-hunters for generations. One of the prime requisites of a young warrior, and an indispensable one for a chief, was an enemy's head, which he had lopped off himself. Little communities of 2,000 or 3,000 warred with other little communities precisely like themselves. It was a virtue to kill or rob, if one's victims were of a neighboring tribe. Towns six miles apart had dead lines over which either side ventured only at its own risk.

GOVERNOR WM. S. PACK AND SOME OF HIS "SUBJECTS."

A law was passed requiring every man to work ten days on the roads, and by the strength of his own personality and of the government behind him, Pack enforced it.

"Usually locked 'em up for a spell and made 'em work like blazes," is the way Pack describes his method of making the punishment fit the crime.

"Those people are our friends and I hated to leave 'em. It would break my heart to have somebody that didn't understand 'em go in and shoot 'em up. They are friends worth having, too. If we ever needed help in a scrap we could go into those same mountain provinces and pick up 50,000 of the loyalest, fightingest warriors in all the world, and they'd be tickled to death at the chance to go into battle for us."

Soon the head-hunter discovered that the men whose heads they had been assiduously seeking, sometimes for generations back, were the same kind of men as themselves. In other words, Pack had taught them the great lesson of human brotherhood.

Pack's system is unique in its treatment of men who are paroled after a jail sentence. Instead of turning them adrift, each man is given a job tending a section of government road, with a little house provided for him and his family to live in. When the time for the annual ten days of labor on the roads rolls round he is, for ten days, in authority over the workers on his section of the highway. If he has natural ability he is more than likely to become an influential and respected man in the community.

One of these paroled prisoners is a chief who cut off seventeen heads before he was arrested by the United States authorities. Pack found that he could trust him as a prisoner and succeeded in obtaining his release.

"That man," said Pack, is as good as a whole regiment in keeping order in his district. Every one of these men who are sent back to their towns becomes a missionary among his people."

One is impelled to talk of Pack's "system" and Pack's "methods," but in the final analysis Pack's system is Pack himself. He succeeded in civilizing the mountain provinces of Luzon because he understood human nature—which he says is much the same the world over, in head-hunters and modern Americans alike—and because he understood the virtue in a few old-fashioned ideas like honor, kindness and straightforwardness.

HAS WINDMILL TO DRIVE HIS PLOW

Texas Farmer Harnesses the Air Instead of His Horses.

THEN GETS A PATENT

Plainview, Texas, March 3.—H. M. Fletcher of this place has invented a traction plow which is run by wind power. He began experimenting with that method of operating plows, both for plowing the soil and cultivating crops, a few years ago. He says that he has perfected finally the mechanism so that it may now be put to practical use. Not long ago he made a trip of seventy miles on his plow along one of the public highways leading out of Plainview, the sole motor power being that of the wind.

In this section of the Texas Panhandle during a large part of the year the wind is very strong, and by means of ingeniously adjusted fans, which resemble the wheel of the ordinary windmill, Mr. Fletcher is able to guide the plow in any direction he may see fit, irrespective of the quarter from which the wind is blowing. In his early experiments he found that the most difficult problem to overcome was the lost motion. He remedied that defect by devising a special gearing by which the outfit is moved rapidly and with sufficient power to cut a ten-inch furrow even when the wind pressure is comparatively small.

Mr. Fletcher says his novel outfit is not only destined to lessen greatly the cost of farming operations in the Panhandle country, but that it may be used economically in boring wells, pumping water and in various other ways where steam and more expensive power is now necessary. It does away entirely with the fuel problem, which is an important one in this part of the state, being remotely situated from sources of coal supply and wood.

While he was perfecting this invention Mr. Fletcher was the subject of no little bandinge by his neighbors. He plodded along, however, with it. He expects to do a large amount of plowing with it next spring and summer. Mr. Fletcher says that there are millions of wind horsepower going to waste upon the Texas plains and that his outfit will harness that energy and put it to practical use.

RARE OPERATION SAVES BOY'S LIFE

Hemophilia Overcome When Two Friends Offer to Give Blood.

OPERATION SUCCESS

New York, March 3.—John Keegan, aged 18, the son of the late John Keegan, was thought to be dying a week ago of an incurable disease in his home, 59 West One Hundred and Eighty-third street. It was announced at mi'on hospital, One Hundred and Eighty-eighth street and Union avenue, that following one of the rarest operations known to science young Keegan had recovered and would leave the hospital.

Since birth Keegan had suffered from hemophilia, a hereditary disease in which the blood fails to clot. A slight scratch will frequently bring about uncontrollable hemorrhage. The condition is due to a lack of fibrinogen.

The youth suffered a hemorrhage of the stomach a week ago and became unconscious. Dr. Alban Munson of 2387 Davidson avenue said the only chance of saving the boy's life lay in an operation. The boy was taken to the hospital, where Dr. Munson, assisted by Drs. Clarence Holmes and Joseph Slack, removed more than a pint of blood from the stomach.

Two Give Needed Fibrin.

The next step was to obtain from healthy young men sufficient life fluid to obtain from it and inject into Keegan's veins the needed fibrinogen. All the time the dying youth lay apparently so lifeless that for forty-eight hours, the doctors say, his pulse could not be felt.

Twelve friends of Keegan offered themselves as subjects. Of these Egbert Brady, the 20-year-old son of Supreme Court Justice Brady, who lives at 2395 Valentine avenue, and Edward Barrett, 19, son of Deputy Fire Chief Thomas F. Barrett of 2303 Andrews avenue, were selected. From each one pint of blood was taken. From this supply the fibrin was separated and four ounces of serum obtained. Two ounces of this serum was injected into Keegan's right hip, but he continued apparently lifeless and pulseless. The remaining two ounces were injected into his breast the next day.

Almost immediately Keegan's deathwhite cheeks began to redden, his pulse began to beat faintly and he showed signs of life the next day. Then he gained more strength as the serum coursed through his veins, and he regained consciousness and began to talk.

He Asks for Food.

Keegan was hungry and food was given him. His mother called on him and the two talked for hours.

"I wish you'd tell those fellows that I'm certainly obliged to them for that life saver they gave me," Keegan told his mother to tell his friends.

Dr. Munson said there was no question in his mind that the healthy serum had provided Keegan with healthy blood and overcome the hemophilia, and that he could see no reason for the boy's continuing in the hospital much longer. Of course, the doctor explained, he will be weak for some time, but with plenty of food this soon will be overcome.

GRAND JURY TO CALL THAW.

Wants His Testimony in Alleged Bribery Inquiry.

New York, March 3.—Harry K. Thaw will be summoned before the grand jury in the investigation which will be made into the charges of bribery growing out of the recent attempt to free Thaw from the Matteawan asylum, according to announcement. This action is said to have been decided upon by District Attorney Whitman after he had read the testimony taken at Albany by the committee appointed by Governor Sulzer.

The grand jury inquiry will probably not begin until after the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus sued out by Dr. Charles Kennedy, counsel for Thaw, and made returnable on Thursday.

HE MADE SURGERY MORE ENDURABLE

OF KNIFE ON BRAIN

Kansas City, March 3.—Twelve years ago a young doctor of Cleveland, O., caused a smile around the world of surgery. He asserted that it was impossible to anesthetize completely the brain of a person, and that in a surgical operation every pain was flashed to the nerve center of the seemingly unconscious patient and registered an irreparable blow at his vitality. He said this was why in so many "successful" operations the patient died.

The surgeons at the University of Paris did not smile at the young Americans assertion. Instead they wrote him a letter and asked for more on the same theory. The result was a paper by the young man in Cleveland on "Surgical Shock," which won the first prize of the University of Paris in a contest open to the world.

Dr. George W. Crile was the young man of Cleveland, now one of the foremost surgeons of the world. At the Contes House here he told two hundred Kansas City doctors about surgical shock. He was the principal speaker and guest of honor at the eighteenth annual dinner of the Kansas City Academy of Medicine.

Many Great Surgeons Converted.

Since winning his first recognition abroad, Dr. Crile has converted many of the great surgeons of the world to his way of reasoning and his theory in a measure has revolutionized surgery. He is not yet 50 years old. He is head surgeon of the Western Reserve university of Cleveland.

Dr. Crile's address was, of course, technical. Interpreted for the laity, his research has shown this: The administering of ether or other anesthetic drugs, while apparently putting the patient to sleep, really does not reach the deeper levels of consciousness. While the senses are dormant, apparently, the brain continues to receive impulses from the field of operation.

Dr. Crile startled even his fellow surgeons by flashing on the screen by stereopticon the face of a woman distorted as if in awful pain.

By Local Anaesthetization.

"This is the expression that would come to the face of a patient on the operating table if the brain could speak its feeling," he said.

How to cut off the connection between the field of operation and the brain was the task confronting Dr. Crile twelve years ago. He has accomplished it by the simple process of local anaesthetization. The patient is put to sleep by ether or other drug in the ordinary way and then the part to be operated on is anesthetized. The effect is to benumb the nerve endings of the wound and the shock of the touch of the knife never reaches the brain.

Dr. Crile illustrated his lecture with pictures showing the effects of ordinary operations on brain cells, as compared to the effect of his system of operating. The difference was marked. He displayed also the records of temperature, respiration and blood pressure of patients under both systems. In one case the condition of a woman who was alarmed over the outcome of an operation on her sister was far worse than that of the patient herself.

CALL A MEETING FOR SAFE FLYING

America Invited to Assist in Revising International Race Rules.

AT BIG CONFERENCE

New York, March 3.—America has been asked to send a delegate to Brussels in May to discuss the future of the international aviation races from the standpoint of safety with delegates from other countries. This information reached the Aero Club of America in a formal report from its delegates to the recent Paris conference of the International Aeronautic federation. The invitation is one of the results of the conference, which found it impossible to make any advance in the direction indicated, and voted to hold the contest this year for the Coupe Internationale d'Aviation, the blue ribbon event, with little change in the rules.

It is asked that America's views on the measures necessary for safety be forwarded to the federation's bureau in Paris not later than April 1 so that a program for the discussion can be prepared in advance.

Aero Marine Traffic.

In addition to the safety problem that of regulating aero-marine traffic will be discussed at the same time at the Brussels meeting by an international committee, together with the work of preparing the world's aeronautic map.

At the last conference the American delegates favored the principle laid down at the Vienna conference of 1912, which, if placed in effect, might have ended the days of the high speed machines. This was a proposal that a minimum flying speed be established for racing. As the swiftest monoplanes today have such small wing surface—less than one hundred and fifty square feet—they are unable to sustain themselves in the air except at high speed. A sudden reduction of speed through accident means a fall. These racing machines are obliged to land at high speed, estimated at eighty miles an hour for the fastest of them—often smashing the chassis.

It is readily seen, therefore, that to require a racing aeroplane to be able to fly at comparatively low speed, say forty-five miles an hour, would bar the present leading machines from competition. The view taken at Paris, however, was that at this time no practical means of determining exactly the minimum speed of a machine has been devised. Hence the failure of the proposal, though favored in principle.

Problem of Safety.

It is quite possible that when the matter again is taken up the new variable surface monoplane, which is to be built for Jules Vedrines, will have solved the problem of safety by meeting the requirements for low as well as high speed. With wings fully outstretched, this craft, with greater sustaining surface, should reduce its forward movement to that of the bib biplanes if provided with an engine that can be run at reduced speed and landing with no more impetus than attends the descent of a biplane.

In flight with wings reefed, reducing sustaining surface and air resistance to approximately that of the present winners, the Vedrines machine is expected, with the aid of more powerful motor and propeller, and some additional refinement of outline, to excel all existing speed records.

BUILDING MINIATURE TITANIC.

Fort Wayne Young Men Constructing a Duplicate Ten Feet Long.

An exact reproduction of the ill-fated Titanic, which was sent to the bottom of the ocean when it struck an iceberg on last April 14, is being built by John E. Benz, of 1216 Barthold street, and Roy M. Bates, of 537 Huffman street. The miniature steamship is only ten feet long, but it contains more than 200 rooms, every one of which contains Brussels carpets and a window. It also is fitted with sixteen lifeboats, four life rafts, cabins for the captain, wheelsman, ensign, smoking and grill rooms, pool and billiard rooms, staterooms, a wireless station; dummy operator and practically everything which the Titanic contained is duplicated in miniature.

The two young men have been working on the ship since May 1, 1912, and it will be finished in a few days. It will be placed in some local show window for exhibition. Benz and Bates will start in a few days to build an exact reproduction of the Anthony hotel.

Unable to Attend, She Watches Procession From Convent Window.

New York, March 3.—A spectator unseen by the thousands who watched the funeral of Miss Henrietta McDermott, a young teacher in public school No. 157 of Brooklyn, was her sister, a nun in the Convent of Mercy, Classon and Willoughby avenues.

Miss McDermott died from appendicitis in St. Mary's hospital. When the funeral passed the school the pupils were dismissed for half an hour as a mark of respect and the flag was half-masted.

From a window in the convent her sister, unable to attend, watched the procession as it passed to St. Patrick's church from the McDermott home, 130 Franklin avenue.

PROVIDE FOR OWN OLD AGE.

German Workingmen Will Form Novel Society to Build Home.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 3.—Unwilling to become dependent on their relatives or friends during their declining years, more than 400 German workingmen and women of the city have hit upon a heretofore unheard of plan to provide a home for themselves when they shall no longer be able to earn their own livelihood. An application will soon be made in common pleas court for a charter for the intended corporation to be known as the "Workingmen's Home Society for the Aged."

WORLD'S GREATEST ACTRESS—BERNHARDT—PLAYS BEFORE 1900 CONVICTS BEHIND GRIM WALLS OF THEIR PRISON.

San Francisco, Cal., March 3.—Sarah Bernhardt, the greatest actress of her generation, recently in the grim prison yard of San Quentin penitentiary, arrived at the most curious and interesting hour of her long and crowded career.

On an open stage set in a sheltered angle of the high stone walls that fence in the bare exercise ground she acted for an audience made up chiefly of nearly 1,900 convicts, of whom more than a score were women and four were men condemned to die within a month.

She played the one-act drama written for her by her son, Maurice, "A Christmas Night Under the Terror." What she did was at once a holiday gift to the prison inmates and a tribute to this country, which she has grown to love next to her own, and to Washington, the founder of its liberty.

Mme. Bernhardt rode into the prison yard in a red automobile, the first automobile ever seen in the yard. When she stood up to survey what lay before her Mme. Bernhardt looked upon a scene stranger than any that had ever before met her eyes. Around her on every side but one high stone walls towered. On them outlined against the sky, blue-clad men with rifles paced slowly.

Immediately in front of her forming the back wall of the yard the red front of the hospital building reared, every window criss-crossed with iron bars, behind them here and there showed the white hands and faces of sick men.

Spreading out in the shape of a fan from the angle of the walls in which the stage was, sat the audience of prisoners on long pine planks propped up a foot or two from the ground.

The convict audience had filed silently in single file with folded arms into this yard. An orchestra made up of convicts, whose stripes were hidden for the moment under gay uniforms, dolorously ground out a program of airs that might have been full of gaiety, but were not.

The orchestra sat glued to the stage. Close behind the back of the conductor rows of chairs were placed for the guests, Warden Thompson of Folsom, the prison directors, Lieutenant Governor Porter and Warden Hoyle, with a gay and brightly equipped little group of their women relatives and friends. Segregated from this group sat the women prisoners, decked out in all the finery at their command. The women prisoners are not condemned to stripes.

Beside the women prisoners, hedged in on every side by guards, sat the four condemned men, two of them Chinamen. Two of them had only a few weeks to live. The ropes for their ending have been stretched and tested and ready, bright new hempen ropes, made in the jute mill. These four sat through the hour motionless, never speaking nor looking around, but always straight ahead with a sort of tense wondering look.

Bernhardt's first appearance in the yard had brought forth a cheer, and when she turned and smiled her gracious smile another and another came from the throng. She waved her hand and vanished. With that the orchestra broke into the "Marseillaise," playing it in the same subdued way it had the pieces that went before.

After the first few bars of the "Marseillaise" a group of the convicts arose and stood bareheaded. Then quickly all came to their feet, dropped their cigarettes and stood bareheaded. They had arisen to her national air as a tribute to Mme. Bernhardt.

The play was over and then Mme. Bernhardt, who had surprised and delighted them, was in turn surprised and delighted by the convicts. From the wings a tall, gray and grim-visaged man advanced and addressed her in perfect and cultured French. She started a bit when she realized that it was a countryman of her own who was addressing her, and then leaned forward intently, smiling and with lighted eyes, to listen. He read her an address prepared in English by Abe Ruef.

"Today, for an hour, these stone walls have faded away. For an hour, through your wondrous personage and entrancing art, we have been in soul and in mind at perfect liberty, captive only of that remarkable force and fire which have made men call you divine. * * * Nor is this moment of liberty but a temporary illusion. Its remembrance will endure. Memory will frequently call it up; and its inspiration will often serve to release from the pressing, grinding worries of the day.

"Believe us, madam, this special performance will be long remembered by every one who has had the distinguished privilege of witnessing it—as well the most lovely as the most exalted. The woman, the actress, the play, have all touched our heart-strings.

Most of us have never before been accorded the distinction of seeing you or of enjoying your incomparable art. We have regarded you from afar as the dramatic star of all earth's first magnitude, crowned with the laurels of imperial success, to whose grace and genius continents have been willing subjects. The ideals we have entertained have this hour been more than confirmed."

There was a good deal more of the address, all couched in the same vein. Mme. Bernhardt remained standing while it was repeated to the audience in English.

She had come to the prison yard gay and smiling, waving a cheery hand. She left it with tears in her eyes.

"The memory of what you have done for us this day," said the French spokesman of the convicts to her at the very end, "is one we will never forget."

"My poor countryman!" she replied, looking past him out over the throng of men in black and white a bit wistfully as if she would have liked to have taken them all away from there with her, "it is a memory that Sarah Bernhart will never forget."

The convict spokesman, thinking Sarah Bernhardt, one of the world's greatest actresses, for her presence at San Quentin penitentiary. The address he is reading was written by Abe Ruef, once political boss of San Francisco—now a convict.

VICTIMS ARE HIT BY WOMAN'S TEARS

Young Swindler by New Scheme Wins Confidence and Much Money.

HOTEL MEN ON GUARD

New York, March 3.—Dark eyes abrim with tears and a languishing southern drawl are the weapons of a young confidence woman who practices a new deceit upon hotel keepers and physicians. She is so active that a warning against her was sent broadcast through the country by the National Hotel Keepers' Protective association.

In parting she promises to send her victim a Virginia ham from daddy's smoke house. It is the trump card. If she made good there would be carloads of the razor back produce trundling north. The association from its office, at 505 Fifth avenue, has told its members everywhere concerning the enchantress of dollars, and advices from Baltimore make clear that certain persons there would like to cause her arrest. There are those in this city who would see her locked up in some place more secure than daddy's smoke house.

Among them is Dr. Lewis Morris, a well known navy surgeon, who lives at the Wyoming, Seventh avenue and Fifty-fifth street. She came to his house a few weeks ago with hard, dry sobs.

"I am a cousin of Mrs. Ash of Newport," she said.

"Calm yourself, my dear madam," said the physician. "I know Mrs. Ash quite well, indeed. What can we do for you?"

Mrs. Morris was in the house. The cousin of an estimable woman in Newport was welcomed at once. The newcomer, after she had been soothed and comforted, told how deeply distressed she was over the loss of her gold meshed purse containing $68. Not that she cared at all for the money, much as its absence distressed her, but its associations were most precious. Daddy, who lived at The Elms, the old family place at Richmond, had given it to her as a birthday present. Daddy never wanted her to go out in the world, he was so proud, and she just couldn't telegraph him about this, and besides she was going on that night to Baltimore to give a recital at the Emerson hotel. So Miss B. was told to be calm and consented to stay to dinner and Mrs. Morris inserted an advertisement for the purse. Dr. Morris gave her $15, which was $5 more than she asked for and escorted her to the Pennsylvania station.

"How can I ever repay you?" said she, with a flash of prophecy. "Could I not send you something from the dear old place. Do you like Virginia hams?"

By chance she had touched one of the physicians's pet preferences.

She has never sent any Virginuia ham nor the $15. Mrs. Ash was not her cousin, but had lost money through her. Her first stop was at Atlantic City, where she left a novel in a boarding house bearing the Morris bookplate. She borrowed extensively from the proprietress, and neglecting to pay her bills, disappeared. She finally reached Baltimore, after several weeks, and went to a select hotel of which she had heard the family of Dr. Morris speak. By a strange chance Mrs. Morris and Miss Morris, a sister of the physician, arrived at the same hotel. Miss B. became ill with the grip and remained in her room until they had gone away. Then she proclaimed how well she knew them to the hotel management, borrowed $7 and disappeared without paying the hotel bill.

There was no such place as the Elms in Richmond, where she had directed that her bill be sent. Boston has had a call from her and Philadelphia has harbored her. The association would like very much to be informed about her further exploits. The woman is about thirty years old and her eyes are dark brown and her hair is almost black.

A TEN CENT BOX OF "CASCARETS"

Keep your liver and bowels active and you feel bully for months.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oils or purgative waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.—Adv.

BOILED BEEF BEATS BEEFSTEAK, DECLARES $10,000 CHEF.

BY MONSIEUR CHARLES LAPERRUQUE,
The $10,000 Chef.

Are you fond of boiled beef?

Your only answer is a grimace. Words are superfluous. I can interpret your looks.

And you, sir? You, madam? You, mademoiselle? And you, boby?

Unanimously you reply: "No, a thousand times no. We do not like boiled beef."

Yet, oh, the miseries of this life. We force ourselves to eat it once a week as a matter of economy.

How utterly foolish!

If you only knew! The smile would come quickly.

And you shall know!

I shall tell you!

In this article you will find revealed secrets which will make you wish that beef boiled in ways I shall describe—BEEF TAKEN FROM THE CHEAPER CUTS—could be served to your family every day!

Here are some of my most delectable recipes for making this eight and ten-cent meat taste like thirty-cent meat:

BOILED RUMP OF BEEF WITH NEW CABBAGE.

Choose the low cut of bottom round with a little fat; set on to boil with cold water and a little salt. Skin well. Let cook two hours, adding the cabbage and small peeled potatoes about half an hour before taking from the fire.

A garnish of sour pickles or horse radish will be appreciated wth this dish.

BOILED BEEF, IN MEXICAN STYLE.

Cut cold boiled beef into thin slices. Broil in the oven until golden brown some slices of onions. Then put them in a stewing pan, dusting with a spoonful of flour. Add one pint of tomatoes, one sliced green pepper and some chopped green celery. Moisten with a little of the broth in which beef was boiled. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Add the sliced beef, grate over a little nutmeg. Stew fifteen minutes more and serve hot.

COLD BOILED BRISKET A LA VINAIGRETTE.

Let your brisket macerate over night in half water and half vinegar with a teaspoonful of pepper corn, six whole cloves, one sliced carrot, one sliced onion and a sprig, each, of parsley and celery. Next morning drain the beef well and sear in a granite pot with drippings over a hot fire. When well browned sprinkle well with flour. Strain the water and vinegar gently over it and let cook slowly an hour and a half.

While the brisket is still hot put into a small bread baking pan and press with a weight. Set in a cold place and the next day use for lunch with this sauce:

One onion chopped very fine, two chopped hard-boiled eggs, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley and one of chopped green celery, add three-fourths of a cup of vinegar and one-fourth of a cup of olive oil beaten together and seasoned to taste.

INDIAN SCHOOLS FAR IN THE LEAD

Superintendent of Carlisle Criticises Methods of Other Schools.

LEADS 'EM FROM FARM

Carlisle, Pa., March3.—Declaring that the Indian schools of the country are years in advance of the public schools in the various states for white children where agricultural training is concerned, M. Friedman, superintendent of the Carlisle Indian school, in his annual report just about to be issued, criticises the schools for whites for retarding progress along this line, and observes that the Carlisle institution is one of the first to "blaze the trail." He adds that hundreds of educators visit the school each year to gain a closer insight into the work.

"For years," he says, "there has been a tendency in our public schools to educate the boys and girls away from the farm and toward the activities of the city, notwithstanding the fact that a large element of our population is now resident in the country districts, and must remain so for many years to come.

"In fact, in thousands of the little 'red school houses' of the country districts the course of instruction has absolutely no relation whatever to the needs of the boy and girl on the farm. Little or no instruction is given inculcating right ideas and sane methods of farming or in teaching the girl something of the practical duties of home life on the farm.

Methods in City Schools.

"To a large extent the same method prevails in the city schools, where the education of the pupil concerns itself practically entirely with preparing the less than one-tenth for high school and giving to the nine-tenths of the school population which leaves school before the high school no instruction of a practical character which fits for the dual responsibilities of right living and earning a livelihood.

"The Carlisle Indian school lays special stress on instruction in agriculture because most of the students own farm land and have an allotment of from forty acres of land among the Pima Indians to as high as seven hundred acres of land among the Osage Indians.

"The instruction in agriculture is of a most practical character. Thorough instruction is given in the class rooms in nature study and in the elements of agriculture. The studies are supplemented and amplified on the school farms, which are conducted as nearly as possible in the same way as a thrifty business man would conduct a farm for profit.

"It has been found by experience that instruction in farming is made more thorough when the student is impressed with the value of time and the conservation of labor and the economy of materials; hence the two large farms in connection with the school have small classes of boys assigned to work on them, who handle their work in the same way that a thrifty farmer would. Instead of having fifty or one hundred boys working in a dilettante fashion on the farm, wasting their time and their efforts and gaining a dilettante conception of labor, six or eight young men are assigned at a time and are given the most practical and comprehensive training. We feel that unless a school farm of this kind is farmed intensively and pays and the boy gains a personal knowledge of the meaning of work and of farm life actual harm can be done when some of the discouragements of real life are met.'

Farm Run at a Profit.

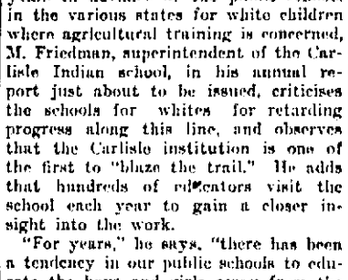
In the report it is shown that from July 1, 1911, to June 30, 1912, the value of the products from two farms amounted to $9,640.35 and the actual cost of production was $2,642.80.

Superintendent Friedman continues: "In too many schools whre industrial training is given elaborate machinery is used and an inordinately large numbers of the boys work at a task, so that when their school life is over and these young people run up against the limitations of their own environment they become discouraged because they do not possess expensive machinery or a large force of workmen. In all of its farming, the aim at the Carlisle school is to fit the training for the Indian boy's future environment.

"Each year the Indians are making more progress in farming and in the last few years the acreage which they are farming has doubled. Likewise the products have increased. Hundreds of returned students and graduates of the school are farming in the west, and their farms compare favorably with the best farms of white men who live near them."

Rheumatism Affects Lungs

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Phthisis, Asthma and Anemia Often Directly the Result of Rheumatic Blood.



If you have a persistent, nagging bronchial cough beware of cough remedies. They are merely local in action, and if they do relieve it is the narcotics that do it. What you require is a blood purifier, a searching antidote that removes from the circulation the acid poisons that by their reflexes attack all weakness, susceptible spots and thus create local symptoms. The very best remedy known is Swift's Sure Specific. You will find it on sale in any drug store at $1.00 per bottle. It goes straight into the blood, becomes an internal blood bath, wonderfully increases the red corpuscles, cures all the local fever spots and irritations, increases appetite, you take on flesh and feel a wonderful sense of renewed strength. Hundreds of people worried beyond control at cough, pains in the chest, sore throat and constant expectoration of thick mucous have experienced the most wonderful change after using S. S. S. All doubt and apprehension is gone, those peculiar pains and aches vanish, there follows a period of most intense rejoicing to find that worst fears were based entirely upon a mistaken notion that cough and chest pains come from the lungs. These are rheumatic conditions, and you will quickly realize it after using S. S. S. for a few days. Get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day at the drug store and then say good-by to all those pains that have worried you.

Write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for medical advice and wonderful facts concerning the greatest blood remedy ever known.

OLD SONG CAUSES ARREST.

Hermit Who Lived Like "Dan Tucker" Is Found Sane.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 3.—Because he sang that old-time "hoedown": "Old Dan Tucker is a fine old man, Washed his face in a frying pan. Combed his hair with a wagon wheel And died with a toothache in his heel," and because he tried to follow the example of the "Dan Tucker" of old, Patrick Irvin, a hermit, who makes ax handles for his scanty living, was haled before the county court here and was examined as to his sanity.

Even when the officers went to Irvin's shanty to arrest him he refused to depart until he had washed his face in the skillet on his kitchen table.

A commission of physicians found that Irvin was sane, despite his queer behavior.

FARM MADE TO PAY BY YOUNG WOMAN

Transforms Her Inheritance Thought Worthless Into Dairy.

AND MAKES SUCCESS

Luzerene, N. Y., March 3.—Miss Kate Hubble, proprietor of the Maplewood dairy farm, in the town of Day, six miles from this village, has the right idea to back-to-the-land. She has a great fondness for life in the country and enjoys looking after the details of her farm. Ten years ago her father and mother died leaving her the farm, which had the appearance of the abandoned farm. Being a girl, she had no thought of working the place herself, rented it to different tenants for three years and went to Glens Falls, where she worked in a shirt factory.

After working three years she decided to go back to the old homestead and farm it herself. She did, and today she has one of the best dairy farms in Saratoga county. She raises all kinds of farm produce and personally supervises the labor of the men. She has a fine old farm house, which has been remodeled and enlarged to suit her ideas. In addition she is reaping the harvest of continued prosperity, general physical comforts, a fine home and abundant good health.

Miss Hubble has become a tremendous power in her neighborhood among the young people; is making a fight for better educational advantages, and is teaching the sons and daughters a better social and intellectual life in the country districts. She does not preach, but shows what can be done by good management. Her stock is the most comfortably barned; the building is scientifically arranged and kept in a sanitary manner; well stored are her farm machines, and the same common sense is used in conserving the dollars which come to her from the sale of her farm products.

"The best crop," said she, "being raised in this neighborhood is the crop of boys and girls, and nothing is too good for them, and they all have elected to stay on the farm. We have a co-operative scheme to help them, and get them interested in the farm business which will solve all of our labor problems that are so serious now that we have work for efficiency along every line. The motor car is helping to solve many of the labor problems, and in two or three years you will see us drive up to the station in well-equipped motors leaving our cans of cream, boxes of eggs and other comparatively small farm products. The coming of the parcel post is a God send, which is going to help us farmers and our association. We are going to plant more, raise more hens, feed more cattle and make more butter, and the parcel post is the means that will furnish the transportation."

The Maplewood farm is one of the best examples of modern farming in the country, and the result of Miss Hubble's seven years work shows the foresight of this young woman. It has taken a large amount of hard work, but her labor is beginning to make good returns. Her experiments have been watched keenly by men and women in other parts of the county, and a great many persons are reaping the benefits of the successful methods she has employed.

FOR THE PUBLIC

New Formula Cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis and Hoarseness in Five Hours.

Much is being done in these days to stop the ravages of consumption, but probably nothing has been so effective as teaching the public how to break up a cold and cure coughs, bronchitis, tonsilitis, etc., with simple home-mixed medicine. A laxative cough syrup, free from whisky, is the prime need. A cough indicates inflammation and congestion and these in turn are due to an excess of waste and poison in the system. A tonic laxative cough syrup rids the system of congestion, while relieving the painful coughing. Get the following and mix at home: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less, according to age. Cut this out and save it for some friend.

BRIDE'S HAT FIRED AT ALTAR.

Priest Crushes Flame and Stills Threatened Panic in Church.

Ballaston, N. Y., March 3.—The presence of mind of the Rev. William H. Walsh, pastor of St. Mary's church, averted a serious accident and panic during a wedding.

Father Walsh was officiating at the marriage of Miss Anna Guito to John Curico, when the bride leaned too close to the candle used in the ceremony, the feather in her hat taking fire. In an instant Father Walsh beat out the flame and calmed those in the church who had become almost panic stricken.

Neithe Father Walsh nor the girl was injured and the ceremony proceeded to the end.

ACCUSED OF AIRSHIP THEFT.

Lawyer Says He Took Woman's Machine for Debt.

New York, March 3.—Mrs. Eva M. Schneider applied to Magistrate Dodd for a warrant for the arrest of Frederick H. Luense, a mechanic of Felix street, whom she accused of stealing an airship which belonged to her and was valued at $2,000. Mrs. Schneider said her airship had vanished in Nassau boulevard, Garden City, Long Island, and that she believed Mr. Luense had taken it to Jersey City.

"She can have it when she pays my client what she owes him," returned the lawyer.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, March 3.—World's shipments larger than expected tended today to ease wheat. In addition there were reports from India that the crop outlook was improving daily. May started at 92¾c to 92½c, unchanged to ⅛c lower, and declined to 92⅛@92¼c. Scantiness of demand weakened May, which opened a sixteenth to ⅛@¼c down at 52⅞c to 53c, but rallied to 53@53⅛c.

The close was weak with May at 91¾c, a loss of ¾c net.

Oats sagged because of commission house selling. May started at 34¼c, declined to 34⅛c.

The close was easy at 52¾c for May, ¼@⅝c net lower.

Strength in the hog market brought about a sharp advance in provisions. First sales were 5c to 12½c higher, with May $20.50 to $20.55 for pork, $10.85 to $10.87½ for lard and $10.77½ for ribs.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York March 3.—Operations on the long side of the market were conducted confidently during the morning by traders who believed that unfavorable factors had been discounted in the current level of prices.
Corn products declined sharply on the proceedings instituted by the government against the company. Bonds were steady.
Prices were generally higher at the opening of the market today. Amalgamated Copper led the list with a rise of a point. Reading advanced ¾. Changes elsewhere were comparatively small. Corn products dropped a point.
The market closed easy. When the advance seemed to have run its course for the time being, traders took profits and there were reactions of half a point to a point. Fresh liquidation of Can increased the disposition to sell elsewhere.

Early Crush at Station.

At the union station beginning at an early hour the crush of arriving thousands swelled by the curious and those on hand to welcome friends taxed the efforts of hundreds of police. Among the delegations arriving during the day were those from Illinois, headed by Governor Edward F. Dunne and his staff; Deleware, Gov. Miller; Pennsylvania, Gov. Tener; New Jersey, Gov. Fielder; North Carolina, Gov. Craig; Alabama, Gov. O'Neal, and large delegations from Maine, Michigan and Kentucky. Other military which reached the city were the Maryland national guard, Fifth national regiment and scores of smaller military bodies.
Vice President and Mrs. Marshall today met the members of the Wilson family party who have arrived preparatory for the family dinner this evening, which will precede the Princeton alumni smoker the last event of the day for the new president's official program.

Take Chair and Album.

When Mrs. Taft leaves the white house tomorrow she will take with her the autograph album in which notable visitors during the past four years have inscribed their names.
The album during that time has been in the custody of the head usher at the white house and many men and women of note have written their autographs therein. Mrs. Taft will be merely following precedent in taking the album with her, for the book always has gone to the mistress of the white house when she leaves the executive mansion. The president will take with him as a reminder of his four strenuous years the chair in which he sat in presiding over the deliberations of his cabinet. His desk chair also will be packed with his belongings.
When President-elect Wilson enters the capital this afternoon among the first to greet him will be his niece, Miss Alice Wilson, who has just arrived from Bellmont seminary at Nashville, Tenn., where she is a student. Miss Wilson is eighteen, a blonde and attractive. She is a member of the junior class at Bellmont. Accompanied by 125 of her college mates Miss Wilson made the trip here to see her distinguished uncle inducted into office. The girls will leave on a special train for New York Wednesday, proceeding thence to Norfolk, Va., by boat and then taking another special train from the Virginia city to their home.

WILSONS LEAVE PRINCETON.

Scene is Impressive as College Town Says Goodd-bye.

Princeton, N. J., March 3.—Woodrow Wilson left Princeton at 11 o'clock today for Washington to become president of the United States tomorrow. Mrs Wilson, their daughters, the Misses Margaret, Jesse and Elenor, and an escort of 560 Princeton students, accompanied him.
The longest special that has ever rolled out of Princeton carried Mr. Wilson and his family and their escort away. As it pulled out the president-elect stood on the paltform of the last of the fourteen cars. Silk hat in hand, he looked down on a mass of fluttering handkerchiefs and banners. The smile on his lips vanished as the train gained headway, his lips were moving; the crowd at his feet heard him join in the singing of the college anthem: "Her sons shall give while they shall live. Three cheers for old Nassau." As the train disappeared Princeton saw him still standing uncovered, his silk hat waving rhythmically to the chorus of song.

Students Come Trooping.

Long before the hour set for Mr. Wilson's departure, the students were trooping from the campus through Blair arch to the station. They gathered, nearly a thousand strong, those departing and those remaining behind, around the long line of steel cars. The townsmen were there in greater number.
It was 10:30 when the president-elect walked out the front door of his home with Mrs. Wilson on his arm and his daughters close behind. Ten minutes later they reached the station. Three automobiles carried the president-elect and party from their home to the station. Mr. Wilson was wearing his new silk hat, purchased especially for the inauguration and his glasses. He posed for the photographers before he was whisked away. The bright sunshine took away none of the sting of the breeze and the president-elect buttoned his black overcoat tightly about him. A great cheer went up when the cars reached the station.

Whole Town Says Goodbye.

Before he had taken two steps the town of Princeton was filing by wishing him God speed and all manner of good luck. This was kept up until his arm was wearied. As the president-elect stepped aboard the train the students gave him a "locomotive" yell. That was the beginning of a long series of yells.
After thirty minutes of cheering, handshaking and singing a leather-lunged Princetonian who seemed to be in charge of affairs, grabbed a megaphone and gave the order "all aboard." The three locomotives attached to the heavy train began puffing; the long line of cars inched slowly out of the yards and the wall of students uncovered.
In the baggage car of the special were 25 suit cases, grips and trunks belonging to the president-elect and his party. On the personal baggage of the next president was written in his own hand writing:
"Woodrow Wilson, white house."
There was no other address and Mr. Wilson laughingly let it be known that he considered this quite sufficient. The only thing that seemed to annoy the president-elect was his high hat. He has repeatedly said he would never wear one when he could avoid it. This was the unavoidable occasion.

Adds Another Page.

Another page was added to the history of Princeton when it sent forth Woodrow Wilson to the white house today. Just a century ago, James Madison, one of the early graduates of Princeton, was inaugurated president of the United States. The little town also saw much of George Washington when he received the thanks of continental congress for his services during the revolution. The congress had been meeting in Nassau hall, the principal building of the college. Not until the close of the nineteenth century did Princeton receive another of the nation's presidents, when Grover Cleveland, the last democratic president, came here to spend his last years and was elected a member of the board of trustees over which Mr. Wilson as president of the university presided.
The bible upon which he took the oath of office when he became governor of New Jersey, will be used by Woodrow Wilson when he takes the oath of office as president of the United States Tuesday. The oaths of each office have been engrossed in the bible by Augustus L. Clarke, of the secretary of state's office.
The bible is a cherished possession of Mrs. Wilson.

DOES HIS OWN FORECASTING.

Wilson's Razor Strop Fortells Fine Inauguration Weather.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 3.—President-elect Wilson forecasts pleasant weather for his own inauguration. The canvas back of his razor strop, which he calls "an infallible barometer," was quite light today and it is usually stiff, he said, when rain or inclement weather is in sight.
The president-elect delivered this forecast with a smile, as he received the correspondents in his car just before reaching Philadelphia.
The president-elect said his cabinet was "provisionally completed." "One doesn't know about those things until the last minute."
Mr Wilson was not sure when he would send the names of his cabinet to the senate. He did not know whether it would be tomorrow or Dednesday, but expected to decide on reaching Washington, as soon as he learned the plans for convening the senate after the inauguration ceremony.

PASSES THROUGH BALTIMORE.

The Wilson train arrived at 2:40 p. m. The president-elect and his family had dined as guests of the students' committee in a special dining car between Wilmington and Baltimore.
There was a brief stop at Baltimore to let off the princeton wrestling team, which meets the naval academy team at Annapolis todinght.

"I am very much interested to learn all about that appointment as well as the others," Mr. Bryan replied. The Nebraskan denied a published report that he was holding up the announcement of the cabinet through a protest against the naming of William G. McAdoo, of New York, as secretary of the treasury.
"I heard that story," he said, "as soon as I reached here. All I can say is that I wish men who write such news were compelled to sign their names. That would not add any weight to their words but would materially lessen the likelihood of disseminating such misinformation."
Mr. Bryan was accompanied by his wife and Josepheus Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., the reported choice of Mr. Wilson for secretary of the navy. Mrs. Daniels also was in the party.
As to Mr. Daniels' selection for the cabinet, Mr. Bryan said that the persistent mention of some names as members of the cabinet led him to regard some reports with considerable credit.
"But I can only say of a particular individual, he is of age; ask him," referring to Mr. Daniels.
Mr. Bryan was met by a committee of citizens headed by Cotter T. Bride. Throughout the morning he received friends and political allies informally. Among his first callers was Henry Morgenthau, treasurer of the democratic national committee. The Nebraskan said he had no plans for formal conferences, though he might see National Chairman William F. McCombs later in the day. He inquired as to the time of President-elect Wilson's arrival but said he knew of no special plan whereby he would meet him this evening.

The president signed commissions of three hundred and fifty persons whose nominations were confirmed by the senate, wrote his autograph upon several hundred pictures of himself and signed scores of important letters.

Sulzer and Gompers Call.

Governor Sulzer, of New York, was one of the first callers upon President Taft today at the white house offices. The governor had been invited to see the president sign the bill creating a department of labor and adding another member to the cabinet. Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, was with the governor.
The president, however, did not sign the labor department bill in the presence of Governor Sulzer and Mr. Gompers, although the governor made a short argument in its behalf.
"It looks favorable for the bill," said the governor as he left the white house offices, and Mr. Gompers agreed.
It was said that the president will not veto the bill, but if he finally decides he does not wish to approve it, may refuse his signature and make use of the "pocket veto."

Last Cabinet Meeting.

President Taft's cabinet met today for the last time. Many bills not yet approved were considered. The Taft cabinet officers sat in the chairs which have been bought for the members of Mr. Wilson's official family and the president used the chair at the head of the table which the new president himself is expected to sit in after tomorrow.
The old chairs have been taken away, according to custom, by Mr Taft's cabinet, each man buying the one he occupies.
The president made but few changes today in the executive offices. He removed from the west wall of his private office the picture of his father, Alphonso Taft, which has hung there for four years. The only picture in the big room which will greet President Wilson is that of former Presiuent Roosevelt, which was hung there several years ago by Mr. Taft.

LOCAL FORECAST.

Fort Wayne, Ind. March 3.—For Fort Wayne and vicinity: Cloudy tonight, with probably snow; Tuesday, fair and colder. Lowest temperature tonight, about 20 degrees.

GENERAL FORECAST.

Washington, March 3.—For Indiana: Cloudy weather with local snow or rain tonight or Tuesday; colder Tuesday.
For Ohio Cloudy, with probably local snows tonight or Tuesday; somewhat colder Tuesday.
For Lower Michigan Snow flurries tonight or Tuesday; slightly colder south portion.

SUMMARY OF WEATHER CONDITIONS

The cold wave which covered the northwest Saturday morning spread rapidly southeastward, giving zero temperatures as far south Sunday morning as southern Iowa, central Illinois and northern Indiana. During Sunday the cold weather overspread the eastern states, but this morning the temperatures are moderating rapidly over the central portions of the country. While some light snow is reported from the northeastern states and from portions of the northwest, fair weather prevails over the greater portion of the country. Another cold wave of moderate intensity seems to be developing in the northwest, with temperatures 20 degrees below zero over Manitoba.
A moderate storm, which is central over Iowa this morning, will give cloudy weather in this section tonight, with probably some snow, followed by fair and colder weather Tuesday.

Cartoonist Cory Sees Some Striking Tourist Personalities in Panama and Pictures Them from Life—Everybody Shoots With a Camera.

BY "UNCLE DUD."

First of all there is, of course, the tourist. He and she and it come from the states for the most part. They arrive singly, in pairs and in shoals and droves. Always eager, hot and hurried, never appropriately garbed, seldom clearly definite as to whether they have landed on an island, a continent or a peninsula and never possessed of the time to find out.

If cameras were rapid-fire guns, the Canal Zone could boldly defy invasion by the combined armies of the world. Cameras of every style, make and condition form the one inevitable article of personal hand luggage. Proprietors of local dark-rooms are waxing financially plethoric and the merry click of the tireless shutter blends into the clattering conglomerate of the sound-burdened atmosphere with a steady, nerve-racking perseverance worthy of a better cause.

They come and go—hot, tired and excited upon arrival—hotter, more exhausted and financially depleted when they depart. A weird and motly and ever-changing army is the tourist host at Panama.

Occasionally a celebrity bobs up among them. Besides ourselves might be mentioned in this class Prettyman, the fine old English gentleman who paints well enough in water colors to entitle him to a membership in the Royal academy. He has, in his favorite medium, sketched a series of scenes at important points along the canal which are more than photographic in their faithfulness to detail, remarkably accurate as to drawing and strikingly truthful of the district in the matter of coloring. Some finishing touches will be added at his home in Bermuda, following which it is probable that the entire collection will find a permanent and prominent abiding place in the congressional library at Washington.

Willis J. Abbott, the political writer, is browsing around the locality in search of material for a book. Ray Stannard Baker is here with a crate of brand new rakes, presumably searching for heretofore unharrowed muck.

Mabel Taliafero languidly spoons her papaya in the dining room at late breakfasts and breaks the heart of the female tourist with her evening gowns at dinner time.

Several train loads of congressmen are expected next week and already a pompous representative from Indiana is doing the heavy stuff on the piazzas in the hope of attracting a few stray snapshots. "Some of them might creep into the papers, you know."

Cleveland's famous chief of police, Kohler, is said to have been studying criminology in the zone, but my utmost endeavors have failed to locate him thus far. I have even been tempted to assassinate a few of the surplus "tar-babies hereabouts in the hope of attracting his attention.

And, besides all these, we have among us, as aforesaid, ourselves—Cory, our wife and myself.

STARTS NEW WORK IN THE CHURCHES

Wants Religious Buildings to Be Used by Young People

AS SOCIAL CENTERS

Kansas City, Mar. 3.—A movement to open the churches of Kansas City as child welfare centers in summer was started by Robert G. Boville of New York. Mr. Boville spoke at meetings of the Baptist and the Methodist Episcopal churches. The movement contemplates that churches shall supply playgrounds and moral, vocational and manual training work for children under 14 years old.

Mr. Boville is the national director of the Daily Vacation Bible Training Association, with headquarters in New York. It was organized in 1907 and has opened summer schools in the churches of twenty-four cities. More than thirty-eight thousand children were enrolled in its schools last summer.

"This is a movement to combine idle churches, idle school children and idle college students during the summer months for the betterment of children," he explained to the alliances. "Each church is a center of its own little community, but very seldom does it exert the influence for child betterment that it should.

"Our method is to employ college students, four for every church, who organize classes for manual training and other lines. In Kansas City alone you have a hundred churches, any one of which could do much for the betterment of the children of its neighborhood.

SUCCEEDS HIS FATHER.

Frank McKeen Elected Trustee of State Normal School.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 3.—Announcement was made yesterday of the election of Frank McKeen to succeed his father, the late William Riley McKeen, as treasurer of the board of trustees of the Indiana State Normal school. William Riley McKeen was the only treasurer of the board. He served continuously from May, 1866, to the date of his death.

MISFORTUNE IN RUNAWAY WHEEL

Bowls Man Over and Starts Fire by Diving Into Basement.

FLIES OFF A TRUCK

New York, March 3.—This is the story of a wheel of misfortune which caused the breakdown of an automobile truck at Fourth avenue and Twenty-eighth street, ran wild through the street for nearly half a block, carroomed off a pedestrian, bumped down a staircase to the basement, broke through a pair of glass doors, bowled over an employe of an antique shop, upset a red hot stove, set the building on fire and caused the police, fire department, fire adjusters and a big crowd to hurry to 417 Fourth avenue. Outside of that it was a perfectly good wheel, well behaved in the past, and all that sort of thing.

This may sound like a story from Winsted, Conn., on a dull day, but the records of the police and fire departments will bear it out, not to say anything of the testimony of witnesses and persons in the street who narrowly avoided being struck by the wheel and having their names in the newspapers and hospital entry books.

The crowd from the loft buildings had hardly quit Fourth avenue after their luncheon hour. A large coal truck belonging to H. L. Herbert & Co., coal dealers—five ton, the driver said it was—came buzzling around the corner of Twenty-seventh and tried to turn north into Fourth avenue. A rear wheel snapped loose from the axle of the five-ton truck. Without an automobile horn to warn folk in its path the wheel thundered up the stone pavement, at times swerving from side to side like an "employe" on his way home the pay day before "rent week."

The wheel was still going at a pretty good rate of speed when it began to do a sort of turkey trot in front of the antique shop owned by Albert L. Morse & Sons, at 417 Fourth avenue. It struck a man there who was going along with both hands in his overcoat pockets, and he fell sprawling to the pavement. The obstruction in the path of the wheel caused it to change its course, and after spinning around a couple of times apparently it saw an opening leading to shelter, and it turned its attention to the basement entrance.

John Henderson and John Hurley, two hard working porters, who do not believe in ghosts, earthquakes or barroom fights, were surprised at their work—this could be made stronger—when the glass windows of the doors in the basement entrance were smashed into smithereens and a great big something that appeared as if it was alive came rushing through the place. Henderson, for many years a sailor before the mast, lost his nerve for the first time in his life. This came when he jumped half way across the room and the wheel crashed into a stove that was piping hot.

Red hot coals flew everywhere as the stove was reduced to small bits. All was confusion. Smoke filled the room and flames began to shoot up along the wall. Three pieces of antique furniture with a turpentine finish went up in flames. Policeman Rickes of the East Thirty-first street police station, who traced the wheel by the mud tracks it made, arrived on the scene in time to send in a fire alarm. The flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

The truck which caused all the excitement and trouble was operated by Hall Ohnesorge of 322 East Eighty-seventh street. The accident halted street car traffic for more than half an hour.

ATTEND FUNERAL INSTEAD.

Proposed Golden Wedding Is Suddenly Turned to Sorrow.

Indianapolis, March 3.—Invitations issued for the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Willis A. Walkup, of this city, instead of calling the guests to a joyful occasion will summon them to a funeral service. The anniversary was to have been observed today, but Mrs. Walkup died suddenly yesterday of an affection of the heart.

Many handsome presents had been received by the couple in anticipation of the event and great preparations had been made for the celebration. Thomas Walkup, of Mattoon, Ill., a son, had arrived for the event. It is believed the excitement attendant on the occasion may have brought on the fatal attack.
